Truman Is Aboard Cruiser En Route To "Big Three" Potsdam Meeting

President Is Accompanied by Army and Navy Chiefs of Staff, Newspaper, Radio Men

EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is the first dispatch from the ship bearing President Truman to the Big Three meeting. Ernest B. Vaccaro, Associated Press, White House correspondent at Washington, is one of three reporters in the President's party. Transmitted by naval communications, the story was released by the White House.

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
ABOARD CRUISER AUGUSTA WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, July 10 (AP)—President Truman sped through placid MidAtlantic waters en route to Potsdam for a "Big Three" meeting he hopes may lead to victory over Japan as well as the course for permanent European peace.

A battle-tested warship is carrying the president to the sessions with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin—talks which may shape the course of history for generations.

The vessel is part of a two-cruiser task force, under the command of Rear Adm. Allan R. McCann.
The presidential party, which includes James F. Byrnes, secretary of state, and Fleet Admiral William D.
Dahlgren, the president's chief of staff, will fly from the port of debarka-tion to the Berlin area. Mr. Truman will use the big C-54 luxury liner in which he traveled to the United Nations conference.

Capt. James H. Foskett commands the ship. The president, the cruiser is commanded by Capt.
L. Boller.
Tanned and apparently in tip top physical condition, President Truman is cruising toward his first conference with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill through the Atlantic waters as placid as those of a mill pond in his native Missouri.

Wearing a sporty cap cocked casually on the side of his head, the president seems to feel the peace of his journey may augur well for the peace treaty with Germany.
He is in Potsdam on the outskirts of the city.

Primarily, the meeting will consider the laying of the groundwork for the peace treaty with Germany.
Including the settlement of boundary reparations, occupational, restitution and other questions.

Friday night by train, sailing the next day from the army port of embarkation dock, Newport News, Va., on a journey which may cover a distance of 10,000 miles by the time he reaches the White House.

Mr. Truman gave his approval today to a direct report from shipboard on his trip. Correspondents of the three news services and a representative of the radio networks accompanied him.

In the presidential party are Gen. Harry H. Vaughan and Capt. James K. Vardaman, his military and naval aids; Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, H. Freeman Matthews, director of the State department's office of European Affairs; Charles E. Bohlen, the department's Russian expert; Benjamin V. Cohen of Byrnes's staff and Alphonse McMahon, a naval officer assigned to look after the ship of the party.

The smallest staff ever to accompany a president to such a confer-

Weather Conditions Likely To Be Big Factor in Invasion of Japan

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press, New York

A few weeks hence any such concentrated air blasting of Japan as which now headlines the war would be an almost certain fact that American invasion was at hand.

Both the scope of the raids, including an estimated 2,000 army and air planes of all types, the targets and enemy airfields, and the intensity of the attack would be that way.

There is every reason to doubt,
however, that American reemployment from Europe has yet reached the point where major amphibious operations could be undertaken or so for some time. Nor are the current conditions now suitable for employing any long overseas jump ground forces, and weather prophets will be an all-important factor in the invasion directly whether against Japan directly in China. The rainy season still dominates the Far Western Pacific sea area and will do so for the next two months or so.

Chinese Troops Isolate Kanshien In Flank Attack

Four American Air Bases Are Liberated; Tayu Is Reoccupied

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, July 10 (AP)— Chinese troops have isolated Japanese-held Kanshien, a former American air base 200 miles north of Hong Kong, and have hurled a strong flank attack against enemy beachheads on China's southeast "invasion" coast below Amoy, the Chinese high command said today.

Chinese army forces, which have liberated four American air bases and are threatening at least three others in South and South-central China, neutralized Kanshien after recapturing Tayu, forty-seven miles southwest, a communiqué said.
Swooping battles raged within six miles of Kanshien, the Chinese said.

Tayu Is Stormed
Tayu, in the heart of the Chinese Wofram mining district in Southwestern Kiangsi province, was reportedly stormed and recaptured by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's men Saturday night.

Tayu lies astride the Japanese communication line between Kan-shien and the big road and rail center of Kungong on the Canton-Hankow railroad—Japan's north-south supply routes across China.
Kungong, 125 miles north of Canton, lies seventy miles southwest of Tayu.

Headquarters said the Japanese soldiers fled from Tayu along the highway leading to Kanshien and asserted that pursuing Chinese forces had pushed on seventeen miles and reached the vicinity of Sincheng, thirty-two miles southwest of Kanshien.

More than 200 Japanese marines were killed or wounded in coastal Peking province in Southeast China yesterday when Chinese soldiers and local militiamen launched a new attack against Japanese beachheads established June 30, the communiqué said.

Early reports from the massive air attack by teamed-up army-navy craft indicate it may have been launched to take advantage of a foreseen weather break. "That if weather was calculated to knock Japanese home air power out of action as a cover for some other impending move to intensify the blockade encirclement of Japan appeared probable. There was no hint from either Allied or Japanese sources of what that other move might be.

Pending that, it seems possible that the great air raid was a preliminary to a further steppingstone advance on Japan in the Ryukyu chain. Recently Tokyo broadcasts were full of reports that American air and naval forces were feeling out defenses in the Amami group north of Okinawa. If they are to be seized to bring American advance bases 100 miles or more nearer air blasted Kyushu, a knockout attack on airfields in all Southern Japan would be a logical preliminary to minimize losses for the amphibious troops assigned to the task.

Although the committee approved last Friday the chairman's bill to permit veterans to work anywhere without joining a union or paying bers assailed the legislation today.

Last week's committee action, they said privately, was taken with-

Grew Says Japan Is Now Trying To Split Allies By Peace Feelers

Acting Secretary of State Says United States Is Interested only in Unconditional Surrender

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)— Japan's vague peace feelers were brushed aside today by Acting Secretary of State Grew with a sharp reminder that the United States is interested only in the enemy's unconditional surrender.

Grew told of four specific indirect approaches on behalf of the Japanese but said that the United States Government never has received a real peace offer from the Japanese Government "either through official or unofficial channels."

The Japanese, Grew said in a statement, are using peace feelers as the Germans did, to stir up trouble in the Allied countries and particularly to try to arouse debate on the terms to be applied to Japan.

Makes Important Statement

Grew spoke strongly on the subject and chose an unusual means to emphasize the importance which he attaches to his statement. Instead of releasing it through the regular State department press officer he himself visited the newsroom where a score of reporters were gathered.
He said there had been a lot of rumors about alleged peace offers from the Japanese and he wanted to clear the air.

The four "alleged peace feelers" which Grew related were these:

1. Persons described in reports to the State department as "leading Japanese industrialists" were represented as wanting to know the best possible conditions of a compromise peace.

2. A neutral diplomat in Tokyo said he had been told by a private Japanese citizen that Japan could not accept unconditional surrender because it would mean loss of face.

3. A Japanese diplomat in a neutral country intimated to an American citizen through a German newspaperman that the United States, because of its "real" interest in the Far East, should abandon unconditional surrender for a negotiated peace.

4. A person whom Grew described as unidentified approached an American Diplomatic mission in a neutral country with the claim that he was authorized (it was not stated by whom) to enlist a neutral government in persuading the Allies to propose a negotiated surrender and propose peace terms.

Hope To Divide Allies
"It should be borne in mind in this connection," Grew said, "that the Japanese, like the Germans before them, rely principally upon the hope that they may be able to divide the Allies and to produce division of opinion within the Allied countries."

"To that end it would be to their interest, as they see their interest, to initiate a public discussion of the terms to be applied to Japan. This they have already attempted to do on several occasions through radio broadcasts."

Rankin Hits Snag

Australians Are Making Excellent Progress in Borneo

Balikpapan's Broad Bay Is Now Completely in Hands of Allied Forces

By SPENCER DAVIS

MANILA, Wednesday, July 11 (AP)— Balikpapan's Broad Bay, an anchorage capable of handling unlimited shipping, is completely in the hands of Allied forces, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

At the same time a headquarters spokesman disclosed the Aussies now hold all of the hotly contested Pandansari refinery area just north of Balikpapan town.

The final link in a chain of amphibious hops around the perimeter of Borneo's biggest oil port came Sunday, Maj. Gen. Milford's Australians pushed in small boats from their west-shore Cape Penadjar positions four miles farther north to Djilabara.

They met no opposition. The small landing craft were protected by naval gunfire.

The new landing port the diggers across narrow straits from Dutch soldiers who seized Cape Teleke-bang the preceding day.

Japanese antiaircraft guns were inbedded in the hilly terrain overlooking the sandy shores of Djilabara, but they had been heavily hit in repeated air strikes.

Northeast of captured Mangar airfield thirteen miles northeast of Balikpapan town, Australians smashed two infiltration attacks by the Nipponese Saturday night and advanced a mile beyond Mangar's runways. Another center of enemy resistance developed on the shallow slopes of Mt. Batochamper—"smashed stone," in Malay—six miles north of the refinery center.

Enemy 105-millimeter howitzer positions, trucks, barges and buildings were blown up by a score of Thirteenth Air Force Liberators and Mitchells giving continued close support to the ground troops.

Australian's Ninth Division patrolled south of the refinery center, seized Miri oil fields on Borneo's northwest coasts without meeting any Japanese, their communiqué said.

Small Feed Grain Output Next Year Curbs Livestock Expansion Hopes

Record-breaking Production of Food Grain Is Forecast Agriculture Department Reports

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Government hopes of a sharp expansion in livestock production next year were blasted today by an official crop report indicating that production of livestock feed grains may be the smallest of 1946.

This year's grain will form the bulk of the livestock feed supply for the greater part of 1946.

The report, issued by the Agriculture department, said the total production of all feed grains—corn, oats and grain sorghums—is now indicated to be the smallest since 1941. A bumper yield will be needed to permit expansion in hog numbers, larger production of poultry and feeding of beef cattle to heavier weights.

On the basis of conditions July 1, the corn crop was forecast at 2,885,328,000 bushels or 543,000,000 bushels less than last year's record crop. A crop of the size indicated would be only slightly larger than the ten year (1934-43) average of 2,433,060,000 bushels.

The prospective short crop of feed grains may be offset in part by a near record harvest of hay—which is used principally as winter roughage for cattle, particularly milk cows. Likewise, farmers are able to conserve on present feed grain supplies because current pasture and range conditions, except in the drought-stricken southwest, were said to be in good condition.

Food Grains Increase

Food grain production, on the other hand, may be the largest ever produced. The department said the wheat crop may break all records.
It was estimated at 1,238,690,000 bushels compared with 1,078,647,000 harvested last year and with the ten-year average of 798,080,000. The indicated wheat crop included 834-189,000 for winter wheat, 27,217,000 for durum and 267,284,000 for other spring varieties.

In an analysis of overall prospects July 1, the department said crop production for the whole country will be below the record crops of 1942 and 1944, but well above average. The production of livestock products likewise will be below last year. The department said cool weather over most of the country during June slowed down plant development and further retarded maturity.

Despite the unfavorable outlook for livestock and feed grains, the production picture for several important food crops was more favorable than a year ago. Big crops of potatoes, vegetables, several fruits and a record rice crop were forecast. A large tobacco crop was said to be in the making. A large increase in the acreage of flaxseed, a source of vegetable oil needed for war and industrial uses, was indicated.

Berlin's food, it was decided, will be supplied from "contributions from all Allied occupation zones in Germany," and Zhukov, Clay and Weeks took steps to solve the coal problem along the same lines.

Inviting the French to take part in the government of Berlin, the three military chiefs decided that the "Kommandantur" should comprise four military commandants, each of whom will serve as chief commandant in rotation.

Each American, British, Russian and French commander will head Berlin's military administration for fifteen days, rotating as long as the city is occupied.

The first meeting of the "Kom-mandantur" will be held tomorrow

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—
Senate leaders made it plain today they think the American delegate to the United Nations should have the right to commit United States troops against a potential aggressor.

This position was taken in the Senate Foreign Relations committee
by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Minority Leader White (R-Mo.).

The development in the United Nations charter hearing was precipitated by Senator Millikin (R-Colo.).
Millikin wanted to know whether it would violate the charter to reserve the use of troops to either Congress or the president, when the Security Council of the United Nations decides force is needed to keep peace.

Idea Is Opposed
Sensing a move to write in a reservation, Connally declared that such an idea would violate "the spirit of the charter."

Vandenberg argued warmly that it would violate the Constitution of the United States.

The Michigan senator took the position that the United States dele-

Eight-Day-Old Baby Is Returned To Her Mother

Mrs. Phyllis Lanman Admits Taking Infant from Marion Hospital

MARION, O., July 10 (AP)—Eight-day-old Jean Eileen Creighton, missing from her hospital crib since Sunday night, was restored unharmed to her parents late today by a married woman who tried to pose as her mother.

Mrs. Phyllis Lanman, 29, was charged with carrying away a child under 12, the penalty for which is one to twenty years in prison.

The restoration of dark-haired Jean to her mother, Mrs. John L.
Creighton, Marion socialite, followed a medical examination of Mrs. Lan-man and a check of the baby's footprints.

The father, a technical sergeant at the Lockbourne army air base, was in Columbus at the time trying to help police in the search.

Police Chief William E. Marks said that Mrs. Lanman, whose husband works in a nearby city, signed a confession that she took the child and tried to convince a physician and her landlord that Jean was hers.

She related that she had lost two babies through miscarriages.

Her account, as quoted by Chief Marks, was:
That she walked to the Marion City Hospital Sunday night about 6:30 p. m., and went to a second floor nursery to look at several infants.

She insisted she had no intention of taking a child but yielded to an impulse.

Next, she went to a drug store, called a cab and started for her rooming house. She stopped at a neighbor's house, changed the child's diaper and asked the neighbors to destroy the soiled diaper.

Reaching home, she undressed the child, went to bed and when the landlady came in informed her she had just given birth to a child and would the landlady summon a physician.

More Than 1,000 Carrier Planes Blast Capital City of Japan

Fighters from U. S. Third Fleet Destroy or Damage 152 Enemy Planes in Air and on Ground

By LEIF ERICKSON

G U A M, WEDNESDAY, July 11 (AP)—The Japanese air force refused to put up anything resembling a real fight over Tokyo Tuesday as more than 1,000 carrier planes of the massive United States Third Fleet destroyed or damaged 152 enemy planes on the ground and shot down two snoopers near the fleet, fragmentary reports disclosed today.

Whether Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey's world's largest task force stuck around today for another strike was not made clear but even the first preliminary accounts left no doubt that the enemy air force assigned to defend the homeland was in hiding.

It obviously has been driven there by a week of strikes by two based army Mustangs, scores of which destroyed or damaged nineteen enemy planes yesterday at Honshu's port city of Kobe while the carrier Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers were roaming the Kanto plains around Tokyo to the northeast looking for targets.

Air Opposition Is Weak
Only one of the nineteen was bagged in the air by the Mustangs and the first reports of the powerful carrier plane blow at Tokyo did not so much as list a single enemy interceptor shot down.

The air opposition to Vice Adm.
John S. McCain's carrier raiders was so weak during the first hours that undoubtedly they returned in repeated strikes to search for camouflaged aircraft and enemy hiding places. What they found remains to be told.

Even with the nineteen Must-tang victims added, for a total Tuesday preliminary bag of 173 Nip aircraft, the biggest question was:
Where is the Japanese air force?

While the carrier planes looked around for Tokyo's defenders, the Mustangs over Kobe had to turn to enemy shipping in the inland sea to keep occupied.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who shattered precedence in yesterday's communique by not only saying the carrier attack was going on "at the present time" but also named some of the battleships and carriers spoke only in the past tense today.

A Tokyo radio commentator made the pointed observation that a previous such carrier strike last February was followed by the invasion of two Jims.

Nimitz said seventy-two planes were destroyed on the ground and eighty more were damaged during the first hours of the attack.
Reports remained to be tabulated for later in the day.

By noon Tuesday seven hours after the attacks opened—there has been no determined enemy resistance in the air.

The navy made it clear that the achievements were far from chronicles, being based on admittedly

Dormitory Club To Be Organized At Central YMCA

First Dinner and Meeting Are Scheduled To Be Held July 23

A dormitory club for roomers at Central YMCA will be organized at a dinner meeting on July 23, Robert L. Sisson, general secretary, announced last night.

The dinner meeting, to be held in the club rooms, will be primarily an organization meeting and one at which future activities of the club will be planned, according to Sisson. The club is scheduled to meet each month and the sixty-one men now rooming at the Y have been invited to be present at the initial gathering.

Hits New High
The secretary reported that attendance at June activities at the Y totaled 25,773, the greatest number since the reorganization of the Y in 1942. He added that 132 different meetings were held and that fifty-seven groups outside of the Y used the organization's facilities.

Rec. club attendance in June totaled 2,841, Sisson said, while the recently organized Victory Room club now boasts a membership of nearly 100 young people.

Building improvements completed last month included erection of new spotlights which are directed on the swimming pool, repairs and painting of benches in the gymnasium and balcony of the swimming pool, and upholstering of some furniture in red and blue leatherette.

Meeting Date Changed
Sisson said the next meeting of the board of directors will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday instead of the same hour on Tuesday. The change was made because many members of the board plan to attend the Rotary club picnic Tuesday evening.

War Bond Quota Nearly Doubled

WASHINGTON, July 10 (P) — Final figures in the Seventh War Loan showed tonight that America piled up the fabulous, all-time record amount of $26,313,000,000, nearly double the $14,000,000,000 quota.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., announced the final results in what he called his "valedictory" speech as secretary of the treasury.

The E-bond goal of $4,000,000,000 was narrowly missed.

Sales of E-bonds totaled $3,976,000,000, but this was above any other drive. The previous E-bond record was $3,187,000,000 in the Fourth War Loan early in 1944.

Sales to individuals were $8,681,000,000, compared with a quota of $7,000,000,000.

Morgenthau said he takes pride in the knowledge the war has been financed by wholly democratic means. He said "there has been no resort at any time to coercion or intimidation or social pressure."

Before this drive, which ended June 30, the record for sales was $21,621,000,000 in the Sixth war loan last winter.

A new record for individual sales also was set, since the greatest previous total was $6,351,000,000.

Sales to corporations totaled $17,632,000,000. The highest previous corporate investments were $15,739,000,000.

NEW STRIKES IDLE FUEL, FOOD, ARMS WORKERS IN EAST

[By The Associated Press]
Strikes in the fuel, food and arms industries shot the total number of workers idle in labor disputes above 55,475 yesterday (Tuesday).

The figure compared with approximately 36,000 on Monday, the lowest of any day since June 19.

New strikes involved CIO oil and gas workers in the United Fuel Gas Company, serving six Eastern states; United Mine Workers at five mines in Pennsylvania and Ohio; CIO Dairy Workers in Detroit; AFL Bakers in Rochester, N. Y.; AFL Shell Workers in Birmingham, Ala., and workers on B-28 bombers in Chicago.

Other continuing strikes included: 6,000 CIO United Automobile Workers at the Spicer Manufacturing Company, Toledo, O.; 1,700 Unaffiliated Newspaper deliverymen in New York City; 1,000 AFL machinists and glass bottle blowers at the Anchor-Hocking Glass Company, Conneautville, Pa.

TENT WORKERS WILL ACT ON RATIFICATION OF CONTRACT FRIDAY

A proposed contract between the State Tent and Canvas Company and workers of the plant, represented by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, will be presented for final ratification by the workers at a meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock in Textile hall, James A. Dundon, regional TWUA director, announced yesterday.

The working agreement, characterized by Dundon as a "very good contract" resulted from a series of negotiations with the company and will be accepted by the company if ratified by the workers, the labor official said.

Girl Slightly Injured When Struck by Car

Patricia Carro, 12, of 745 Maryland avenue, was treated in Memorial hospital last evening for minor scratches and bruise burns of the arms and body after, attaches were told, she was struck by a car on North Mechanic street, opposite the Maryland theater at 10 p. m.

The girl, attaches said, was taken to the hospital by the driver of the car, a woman, Route 2, of this city. Officer C. W. Thompson, who investigated, said he was told the girl darted out into the street from between two cars. No charges were preferred.

U. S. Delegates

Pasvolsky is nearing the end of his detailed explanations.

Subsequently the committee, and then the Senate, are to vote on whether the United States shall join the world organization chartered in the San Francisco Conference. Hearings today also brought:

Other Developments
Announcement by Chairman Connally that the joint chiefs of staff, a committee, would the military implications of the charter are in accord with the military interests of the United States.

Assurance by Pasvolsky that the signers of the charter are pledged to respect the traditional American policy outlined in the Monroe Doctrine—no European encroachments in this hemisphere.

Testimony by Pasvolsky that Russia and Poland never were "in a state of war" and that presumably Russia could not deal with Poland under the charter as a "former enemy."

Senator Johnson (R-Cal), foe of the old League of Nations, broke a two-day silence in the committee to question Connally about the trusteeship systems that are contemplated for militarily strategic territories.

Connally, referring to islands the United States forces have seized in the Pacific, declared:

"All we have got to do is to hold on to them 'til we want to let them go."

"Then we can keep these lands we have taken at the cost of a million men?" the Californian asked. "The senator is stating my views," Connally replied.

More Than

F. (Bull) Halsey, which included some of the biggest carriers and at least four battleships, had the advantage of "complete tactical surprise."

At the same time the fleet admiral disclosed that control of army-based planes in the Ryukyus has passed into the hands of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

That vaults MacArthur's base of air operations within 325 miles of Japan and more than 1,000 miles above Manila.

Carrier and land based planes, totalling more than 1,500—they included a huge force of B-29s—roared over the enemy homeland Tuesday to give the war-battered country its heaviest day of aerial drubbing.

Nimitz reported that fleet search planes, which remain under the admiral's command, sank or damaged six small enemy surface craft Monday off Honshu, main island of Japan, and Korea. MacArthur in his communiqué had listed ten enemy vessels sunk or damaged in streets extending from Formosa to Java.

Fleet air wing planes, based in the Okinawa area, have sunk 50,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 57,000 tons since beginning operations in April over enemy home waters, Nimitz said. Fourth Marine aircraft wing planes have sunk 5,000 tons and damaged 50,000.

The admiral reported that on the day of the carrier and superfort strike at Japan, Liberator bombers of the Tactical Air Force, based on Okinawa, struck Kikai island in the Northern Ryukyus.

The day before "a substantial force" of the Liberators bombed Omura airfield on Kyushu, southern Japan, and started several large fires.

Search planes bombed two photostatic plants on Southern Korea Monday.

Greatest Mobile Striking Force
The fleet hitting Japan was called the "greatest mobile striking force" of history.

A navy spokesman who described the mighty force in Washington said the attack followed the usual pattern of softening up the Japanese as a prelude to further blows.

He announced the assault was the fifty-third large scale attack by fast Pacific fleet carrier task forces on enemy aircraft and shipping installations since Jan. 1, 1944.

Not a Japanese plane had been sighted by Adm. William F. Halsey's trouble-hunting ships six hours after the carrier planes started their surprise assault.

Japanese Imperial headquarters issued a communique through Tokyo radio saying that from 5 a. m. to 1 p. m. Tuesday—4 p. m. to midnight Monday, United States Eastern War Time—about 800 of the carrier planes had been counted. But there was no hint of counter action.

The carriers, protected by battleships, cruisers and destroyers, steamed contemptuously close to Japan's main island of Honshu, Associated Press Correspondent James Lindley reported from one of the vessels.

He said the first planes took off from Vice Adm. John S. McCain's carriers, part of Halsey's fleet, at 4 a. m. and that up to 10 a. m. no Japanese planes or ships had come out to resist the bold attack.

No Enemy Fighters Seen
Preliminary reports of returning fighter, dive bomber and torpedo bomber pilots indicated the Japanese were not even putting many intercepting planes into the air over the target area.

Lt. Comdr. Cliff McDowell, of Turlock, Calif., one of the first aerial observers to return to McCain's flagship, said he saw no enemy fighters in the air.

Some were seen by American fighters escorting his torpedo plane, McDowell told Jack Mann of Mutual Broadcasting Company in a radio interview.

Similar reports were made by other flyers, who centered their attacks on Japanese airfields.

Group Commander W. A. Gerald of West Newton, Mass., reported he saw no United States plane shot down.

Two Allegany Soldiers Reach Miami, Fla.

Associated Press reported from Miami, Fla., yesterday that another group of Maryland fighting men have arrived at the Air Transport Command's Miami Army Air field including one from Cumberland and one from Westernport.

The two Western Maryland men to arrive were Sgt. Richard W. Moody, 26, Homewood Addition, Cumberland, and Pvt. Gerald Franz, 25, 102 Spruce street, Westernport.

From Miami, the Maryland veterans will go by rail to Camp Blanding, Fla. They then will be taken to a reception center for separation or furloughs prior to reassignment.

ence, will be joined in Germany by Joseph E. Davi es, special presidential emissary, and officials of the War, Navy and State departments.

The understanding is that General of the Army George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, and possibly Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, also will sit in on the conferences.

Starting with his arrival at Newport News, when he left his train for the admiral's cabin on the ship, the president has been up and about every day no later than 6 a. m.

He spends several hours each day with Byrnes and other members of his staff, going over conference papers and reports from the Pacific battlefronts.

Eight-Day-Old

Mrs. Lanman was taken into custody following a report to police by the neighbor at whose home she left the diaper. The diaper was identified as belonging to the hospital, and the questioning began.

She related that her last miscarriage was three months ago, but that she had not informed friends.

Baby Jean was in good health when turned over to 24-year-old Mrs. Creviston at the home of her father, Roscoe D. Moser, former Marion safety director.

Three Persons Make Their Solo Flights

Three more aviation students have soloed at the Cumberland municipal airport, George Ruhl, instructor, announces.

Joseph H. Cromwell, Hagerstown, former manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company here; William E. O'Neal, 19 Somerville avenue, city; and Ray Rhodes, Oldtown road, soloed on Sunday, after completing a course of instruction.

Cromwell also completed the ground school course held at Port Hill high school in the early spring.

He spends several hours each day with Byrnes and other members of his staff, going over conference papers and reports from the Pacific battlefronts.

and Soviet Col. Gen. Corbatov will be first chief.

Today's decisions in effect vindicated the Soviet position on the feeding of Berlin after the same three Allied representatives failed to agree last Saturday night.

It was presumed that American and British transport systems would bring considerable stocks of both food and fuel into their Berlin sectors from the western occupation zones. The Anglo-American demand previously had been that all Berlin should be supplied from its Soviet-held hinterland.

Avrudaka Nomads Will Hold Outing

Victory Santh No. 30, Nomads Avrudaka will hold an outing of the form of a covered dish on July 20, at the home of Bertha Keyser, Baltimore.

Members will meet at 6 o'clock Central YMCA and go out in group.

Plans were formulated at meeting held last evening at home, Prospect square, Mrs. F. Burner was appointed chairman of the menu; and Mrs. Joseph Biggs, John Miller, Robert L. and George Arbogast chairmen of transportation.

A dinner was held at Central YMCA preceding the meeting, which time Walter McKee presided and a musical program was presented. Several selections were given by a quartet composed of Lillian Miller, Mrs. Biggs, W. McKee and George Arbogast, Mrs. Biggs at the piano. Twenty members attended.

Cresaptown WSCS Will Have Picnic August 14

The WSCS of the Cresaptown Methodist church formulated plans for a picnic supper at the meeting last evening at the home of Foster Glover, with Mrs. Clara L. presiding. It was arranged to have the supper August 14, in back of the Shaffer store in Lewisville.

Mrs. Elsie Shaffer and Miss Dora Lewis as hostesses.

Miss Susan Smith was appointed chairman of the committee to serve the "Link" magazine to service of the church. Miss Smith named her own committee.

Frances Walston was admitted to the general circle as a new member. Reports for the last quarter were also made.

I'm glad I canned in '44

This year I'm canning even more

See Home Service Dept.

"You bet I canned in '44—this year I'm canning even more of these nutritious fruits, vegetables and meats. I'm going to make sure that my family and I will have sufficient food to carry us through the winter by canning as much as I can grow, buy and prepare."

Whether you preserve by the hot water bath, pressure cooker method or oven-canning, you will find your Gas range will help make canning a comparatively simple task . . . and one that will give you better, more nutritious meals—will cut your household budget and will help you make a real contribution toward winning the war against the Japs.

So let's start . . . soon—For guidance on how to home-can by any of the accepted methods, call the Home Service Department of your gas company—they will be glad to advise you.

Ridgeley Soldier Receives Discharge

A Ridgeley soldier who participated in the "D" day landing in France and the campaigns in Central Europe and the Rhineland has been discharged from the army at Fort George G. Meade with ninety-five points.

He is Sgt. Charles B. Fair, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fair, Main street, Ridgeley, who was inducted into the army at Fort Hayes, Ohio, May 7, 1942. A member of a Chemical Mortar Battalion, Sgt. Fair trained at Fort D. A. Russell, Texas, Fort Gordon, Johnston, Fla., and Camp Pickett and Camp Bradford, Virginia.

Sgt. Fair had additional training in England following his arrival there in November, 1943. As a result of his campaigning, he received the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart and Oak Leaf Cluster, the Good Conduct Medal, European Theater ribbon with bronze arrowhead and four Bronze Battle stars and a Presidential unit citation.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent urination, backache, and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Local Cousins Are Discharged by Army

An honorable discharge from the army was given Pfc. Harry R. Bosley, at Fort Dix, N. J., July 2, after he had been in the service for two years, spending seven months in France, Belgium, and Germany. He is the husband of Mrs. Helen E. Bosley, 800 Lafayette avenue.

On last Feb. 2, Pfc. Bosley was flown from Belgium to be with his wife who had undergone a serious throat operation in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Bosley, this city, Pfc. Bosley was employed by the B. and O. railroad here and plans to resume work with the railroad.

The day after Bosley received his discharge, a cousin, James Edward Moffitt, 123 Roberts street, also was released, receiving a medical discharge at the Aspinwall, Pa., Veterans hospital.

Moffitt had been in the service eighteen months. His wife returned home recently from Memorial hospital where she gave birth to a daughter, the couple's sixth child. Moffitt, a son of Mrs. Mary M. Ruby, 700 Lafayette avenue, is also a former B. and O. employee and plans to return to work for the company.

Liberated Prisoner Is Home on Leave

Pvt. Delbert M. Stouffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stouffer, Cresaptown, who was captured by the Germans in the "Battle of the Bulge" in Belgium on December 18, last year, and who was liberated by the Russians in May, is now home on furlough.

A former Celanese employee, Pvt. Stouffer was taken prisoner by the Germans when he and thirteen other men were cut off from their outfit by the fast-moving German counteroffensive. From then until New Year's day they were marched and moved by train to Stalag 4-B in Eastern Germany.

Pvt. Stouffer entered the army in March 1943, and went overseas in September, 1944.

The Stronger Point On Charter Membership

SENATOR VANDENBERG (R-Mich.), who was a delegate to the San Francisco conference, tells the Senate Foreign Relations committee that the United States will be free to withdraw from the United Nations organization whenever it chooses.

The declaration was prompted by a brisk exchange over the withdrawal provisions of the charter touched off by Senator Milliken (R-Colo.) who contended that the Security Council set up by the charter could, in effect, prevent a nation from quitting.

But Vandenberg countered by asserting that the United States is free to withdraw "at its own unrestricted option" with only the obligation of saving face.

But that is not the most important thing the Michigan senator had to say, however much that might have served to allay any fears entertained that this nation would be completely sewed up in the organization.

The really significant thing noted was his assertion that there would be a penalty if this nation should determine to withdraw "that penalty would be 'active public opinion.'" If the reasons assigned did not satisfy the "conscience of the world."

And mark this: In such case this nation would be in the same position as if it never had joined and would be subject to the same "discipline" if it were to threaten the peace and security of the world.

We do not expect this nation ever to threaten the peace and security of the world—but we can never tell whether other nations might construe some action by this nation to be just that.

Thus is seen why this nation should not only join the United Nations world security organization but why it should continue to hold membership in it so long as it amounts to anything in preserving world peace. Of course, there might be circumstances justifying the withdrawal of this nation, but they would certainly have to be sufficiently cogent and reasonable to affect world opinion favorably.

Secretary Stettinius declared at the hearing, and rightly so, that "the purposes and principles of the charter are those in which the great majority of the human race believe," adding the belief that our experience at San Francisco "offered a convincing demonstration that this charter can be made to work."

It simply must be made to work. This is the only way to insure that the whole human race is to be saved from utter destruction.

The long and short of the whole thing is that this nation is obliged not only to look to what affects its own membership in the organization but also to what affects the membership of other nations.

A Hopeful Prediction On Synthetic Tires

AMERICA has made as much progress in four years of experimentation with synthetic rubber tires as in forty years of experience with natural rubber, according to Dr. Howard S. Fritz, research expert for B. F. Goodrich Company. He thinks synthetic rubber will crowd out the natural type.

In 1941, America produced only 6,000 tons of synthetic and imported 775,000 tons of natural rubber. Now 1,200,000 tons of synthetic are being produced annually and it is being utilized for all purposes that natural rubber served.

Synthetic will be produced for ten cents a pound, Dr. Fritz predicts, whereas the cost of natural rubber before the war was twenty cents. Based on a consumption of 850,000 tons per year, this will mean a saving to Americans of $100,000,000 annually. In four years this would exceed the $700,000,000 which the government spent to build the synthetic industry.

Considering the prospects that synthetic tires will prove equal to possibly superior durability on the basis of the big progress already made, it is hoped that Dr. Fritz's prediction will come true. Aside from the material gain, there would be a further gain of helping this country become independent of foreign importations.

Isolation Gets Another Setback

PLANS have been announced by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for mobile radio-telephone systems which will enable motorists to have two-way telephone service similar to that available to household subscribers. Applications to install these radio-telephones in New York, Baltimore, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Denver, Houston, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Salt Lake City and Washington have been filed with the Federal Communications Commission.

Two systems are contemplated. With the simpler design, a person driving along a highway would see a green light on the instrument board of his car. This signal would advise him to stop at the first telephone and call his office or his home. The other design calls for complete two-way telephone service. Any subscriber can call the motorist, or he can call any telephone number.

The proposed facilities doubtless will be of great value commercially. A truck driver, for instance, could be given new instructions as he rolled along the road. A physician might receive an emergency call and hasten to respond. But such a service is not entirely an unmixed blessing.

There are men who spin over the highways with their minds at rest. They meditate and enjoy the scenery. For a little while they get away from the details of business. Place them under the spell of a radio-telephone and these moments of freedom would be gone. The bell will ring and a voice from the office will give a command. Or maybe a wife's dulcet tones will ask her husband to look on the back seat to see whether she left her umbrella in the car.

Science would be even more marvelous if it didn't involve so many complications.

Horrendous War Contrivances

IMPRESSED though Americans are by disclosures of American officials who have been studying the work of German scientists engaged in military research, there is no particular need to worry about some of their more ambitious projects just now. Perhaps they represent serious potential problems, but there are others just as grave and a great deal closer.

Take, for example, the idea of contriving a jet stream 5,000 miles in the air from which the sun's rays would be concentrated by mirrors on the earth's surface to demolish cities and even whole countries. This horrendous machine is perhaps not exactly fantastic—American experts say it cannot be so easily dismissed in the light of cold, careful, systematic methods used by the Germans—but since its development would require fifty to a hundred years, it is hardly worth while to get excited about it for the present.

But it must be admitted that these German researchers produced enough devilish engines of destruction to command a certain respect if something less than admiration. The V-1 and V-2 weapons failed to change the course of the war, but it is conceivable that they might have made a difference if produced earlier or in greater numbers. Certainly the work the Germans did with rockets in general was, in the words of Col. Keck, chief of the Ordnance Service's chief technical intelligence branch in Europe, a "great engineering accomplishment."

It must be realized, moreover, that nothing is gained trying to stop progress in this field or any field of science. But Americans must insist that this country attain leadership in the development of new weapons and make sure, also, that the Germans cannot build them to arm another Hitler.

An Interesting Insight Into Reading Tastes

A TRIBUTE to the quality of wartime newspaper advertising is contained in the report of a study made by Advertising Research Foundation, Inc. Increased reading by both men and women of unsigned editorials and record readership in circulation newspapers during the war, the study found, was not due to the war, but to the fact that the war was a long recess.

Classified advertising also showed an increase in reader interest, the report showed. "The cut in space allotted to advertising," the foundation commented, "had no apparent effect on the over-all reading of advertising in general and the increase in national reading may be due partly to the graphic and compelling wartime themes and illustrations."

The increase in readership is a tribute to newspaper advertising, many of them during the war had nothing to sell. It also reflects credit on the newspapers, which have been making a serious effort to interpret the news in their editorials and also to encourage effective presentation of the products and services of their advertisers.

The wheat harvest will not be considered fully under way until a pretty city girl, complete with shorts and hair-do, is pictured driving a combine.

Truman says the meat situation will improve in July, without citing his authority. Is this the opening gun in the 1946 congressional campaign?

A chicken dashes across the road, no doubt, because some meatless citizen is chasing it with an axe.

The only wild men the Australians found in Borneo were Japs who had run themselves crazy trying to get away.

KEEP EXPECTING

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
When we look forward to things we have something on which to build our expectations. And this adds to the zest of living. If we expect to do a thing well, or expect big things from our efforts, we are quite sure to see them accomplished.

Micawber in Dickens's novel "David Copperfield" was always expecting "something to turn up." But he never did anything about it. We must work and plan toward the objects of our dreams and imaginations.

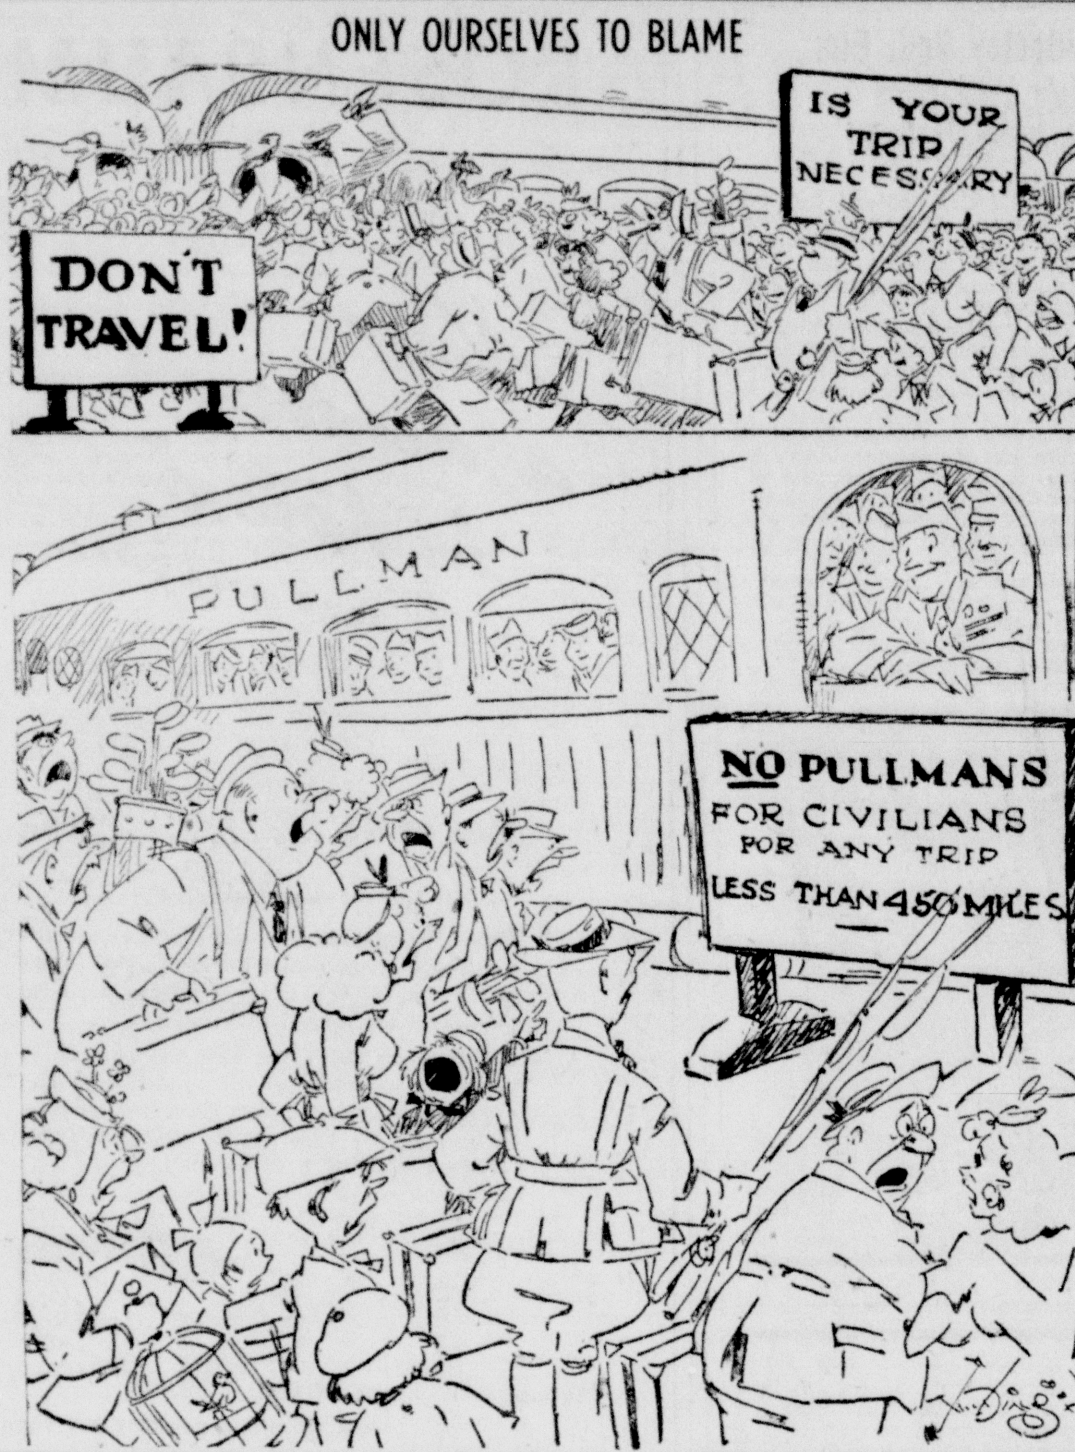

People who achieve great things expect to achieve them! This is the attitude of every progressive worker and creator. It would be interesting to know about all that went through the mind of Thomas Edison, as he experimented, over and over again, on his electric light. One thing I am sure of, and that is, he expected he would finally win out, as he did. We should keep visions before us all the time, visions of things that we would like to do, and see done. In the same manner as a child looks forward to a trip that has been explained in all its fascinating details, so should we all look forward to the objects of our desires. When the mind is made up, then comes the thrilling period of expectation, and half the fun of achievement is experienced in the thinking of it.

The creative artist keeps this idea, of expecting something worth while, ever before him. It stimulates his efforts and keeps his enthusiasm at a high pitch.

The trained athlete ever keeps before him the idea that sometime he is to be Champion! We never know just how many there are who are in training, silently and with a will, for some high and honored place in life. That's why we are so amazed when a man, or woman, suddenly emerges into fame. All that time we knew nothing about them, they were making preparations, looking ahead—expecting the very thing that finally became theirs.

We can make our lives so much more worth while if we keep expecting—patiently biding our time, and nourishing our spirit with faith.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington Is Quiet, Although Jammed, Reflecting Confidence in White House

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—The District of Columbia looks more like a peaceful capital this summer than in many years . . . for the first time since the war, the House is now planning a long recess . . . This reflects increased congressional confidence in the new White House set-up, also the fact that many a legislator yearns for home . . . the dollar-a-year men and brass hats who planned to check out after Germany's defeat haven't started their exodus. Instead they've been joined by hundreds of business men who've moved in to get their reconversion headaches unalarmed.

Thousands of returning officers and enlisted men from Europe have added to the housing and feeding problem. Parking spaces along the Potomac are crowded on hot nights with G. I. boys and G. I. Japs and government workers searching for a cool breeze. Washington is more peaceful, but still jammed.

Added to the crush are the Truman boys who have descended on Washington . . . They fall into three categories: (1) The Missouri boys, friends of Truman and Bob Hannegan looking for jobs, patronage, and juicy political plums. (2) The boys from Southern California—friends of former Democratic Treasurer Ed Pauley who've rushed into town to climb on the gravy train. They're brash and crude for the most part, have little respect for the taxpayers' money, and already have their eyes on the glitzy doors of the capitol. The third group are the "Battery K" men. These are the World War I vets who saw service with Harry Truman in 1917-18. Most are satisfied with a brief "hello" and a handshake from their hero. Others, clinging to the wrought iron gates of the White House, think that their comradeship with the new chief executive is a guarantee of a soft government job.

Truman's own aids in the White House are still impressed by their new surroundings. . . . Some feel Truman's rise gives them a blank check to use his power for their own ends. . . . One contrary aid has been bragging about having Truman's political enemies shadowed, their wires tapped. Truman, a sworn enemy of wire-tapping when in the Senate, will probably clip their wings soon . . .

NEW COMMANDER

MAJ. GEN. KELLER E. ROCKEY, of Washington, D. C., is the new commander of the Third marine amphibious corps, succeeding Lt. Gen. Roy Stanley Geiger, of Pensacola, Fla. Geiger becomes commander of the Pacific fleet marine force. Rockey formerly commanded the Fifth marine division, veterans of the fierce Iwo Jima battle.

Most powerful man in the Truman entourage is chubby, cigar-smoking Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughan, one of the "Battery K" boys, who buzzes considerable advice into his chief's ear, but now finds it being accepted with less frequency . . . The hangers-on are still having a field day around the White House.

Center of administration power has partly shifted from the White House to the second floor of the Mayflower hotel, where Bob Hannegan holds forth in Democratic headquarters. Judge Weibull Mayock, the committee's new general counsel, uses the office to lobby for California oil interests . . . George Killom, the new treasurer of the national committee, who has been using a meat-ax to collect money for the committee from business men who may find himself chopped down soon . . . One ardent Democratic supporter of many years' standing hearing about Killom's tactics, said, "he'll collect so much money we'll lose in '48. Everyone he taps for $5,000 will feel like cutting twice as much to the Republicans to boot the Pauley crowd out." Meanwhile little is happening to set the stage for Democratic victories in the congressional elections next year . . . Hannegan is already in hot water with labor, particularly the CIO, which he has been studiously ignoring. Labor leaders, who poured out millions to help Roosevelt last year, claim they can't even get a glass of water from the Democrats when it comes to bucking oppressive legislation in Congress, and are now making threats to move over to the G.O.P. camp.

Smooth-Running Department
Newly-designated Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson hardly got a chance to hang his hat anywhere before he was moved upstairs . . . Vinson takes over one of the most efficient, best-run agencies in the government—the treasury. It will grow with Vinson in the driver's seat. First new addition will be the powerful Export-Import bank to be transferred to the treasury soon . . . Vinson's predecessor, Henry Morgenthau, did not encourage dollar-a-year men, instead developed his own aids, few of whom are wealthy, all of whom are civil service employees . . . Best example is smart, hard-hitting Assistant Secretary Harry White who started at the bottom of the department, rose to a position as the nation's leading expert on international finance . . . Morgenthau can become head of the new Bretton Woods international fiscal agency if he wants the job.

Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas's younger sister walked into her office the other morning with her fiancé, a handsome R. A. F. officer. They wanted to be married right away . . . Congresswoman Douglas called debonair Texas representative Lyndon Johnson, who Truman's cabinet changes thus far have been extremely popular. Tall, scholarly new Labor Secretary Schwelb has made scores of friends for his department, has infused new life among its weary employees, has made an A-1 impression on Congress with his departmental reorganization plan . . . Schwelb eats in the departmental cafeteria, rides the regular elevators, walks around the department casually, keeps a close eye on things. . . . Before he's through, Schwelb will have several agencies dealing with labor matters under Miss Perkins, back under one roof.

Ex-Congressman Clint Anderson has the hottest job in the new administration trying to straighten out the tangled food mess as secretary of agriculture . . . Anderson is a great red-tape shearer, has already made big improvements, no pushover for lobbyists for the farm group or their ressure boys who represent the meat packers.

Changes Come Fast

Other changes are taking place fast. Able Undersecretary of Interior Abe Fortas plans to resign soon, enter private law practice. Favorite crack among Roosevelt holdovers who know their jobs are doomed is, "when are they going to throw you a farewell cocktail party?" . . . Three cabinet members have new books up their sleeves in various stages of preparation . . . Secretary Morgenthau has one on postwar Germany; Henry Wallace has finished a tome on postwar jobs, and Secretary Ickes has another volume of curmudgeonisms in the works . . . Wallace's new undersecretary of commerce, Al Schindler, is getting the reputation of being the talking man in the administration . . . Colleagues accuse Schindler of making a speech every time he opens or closes a window.

arranged with officials in near-by Virginia for a hurry-up marriage ceremony. Signing mail with one hand, telephoning with the other, Mrs. Douglas planned the wedding details, voted on a pending appropriation bill, and then dashed off to the wedding in Arlington, Va.

Capital Sources Expect Ickes Is To Stay on Job

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON.—Look for "Honorable Harold" Ickes to stay in the Truman cabinet as secretary of the interior—or at least to be the last to leave his resignation accepted with regret.

Former Senate pals of President Truman—who disclaim any inside information—forecast that Ickes and Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, are the best bets to come through the current cabinet shakeups.

They point out that Ickes's reputation as a self-styled "curmudgeon" comes largely from his liking "free-for-all battling with bombastic invective," of which he is a master. He is a useful political tool, who does an efficient administrative job, and a political ally not worth while converting into an enemy.

Truman Quite Human

President Truman's careful way of mingling with the people and dining out is giving secret service operatives work aplenty. In olden times, if the president dined away from the White House, it was big news. Past presidents seldom left the executive mansion for brief respites among intimates, except, of course, when they made set tours of the country.

Not so with Harry Truman. He pops out of the White House frequently on unannounced dinner engagements with a group of cronies, usually former colleagues in the Senate. He dashes about Washington as though he were still plain Harry Truman, haberdasher from Missouri.

His intimates call him "Truman the Human." At a recent dinner away from the White House attended by the president the group turned to singing songs, and Harry Truman joined with gusto. One of the group was heard to say: "You may be president of the United States, but you are still Harry to us."

As vice president, Mr. Truman's nearest rival in recent history as a party-goer was the late Vice President Charles Curtis of Kansas. Kansas, it will be noted, is next to Missouri on the map.

Inflation Fared

The revolt in Congress against the Office of Price Administration is causing many members to predict that the country will experience a post-war inflation of considerable proportions.

They recall that the inflation of World War I, while it found many prices much higher than they are today, occurred for the most part after the 1918 armistice. They point out that the basic inflationary pressures today are many times as powerful as they were at the close of World War I. As a result, the potential inflation today is many times as explosive.

The bitter fight against the OPA, in the opinion of these members, indicates among other things, an impatience to throw off war-time controls and allow prices, rents and wages to find their own levels. They believe that the OPA and the entire stabilization set-up may be abolished next year.

Some members of Congress are saying privately that inflation is inevitable. Others portray the horrors of runaway prices in vivid terms, and insist that controls must be maintained until the country passes through the reconversion period.

Meanwhile, the OPA, saddled with too many unpopular jobs, is the butt of public resentment against government control of the nation's business life.

Union Leaders Belligerent

Burly spokesmen for the glass workers union adopted a belligerent attitude about the strike of 16,000 of their workers employed by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Libbey-Owens-Ford companies.

The strike, which began June 21, had tied up production of glass canisters for United States warplanes. At a War Labor Board hearing, union officials received a suave dressing-down from War Labor Board Vice Chairman Lloyd Garrison. Garrison has promised them that matters at issue would be thrashed out at another hearing, July 10.

Japanese Are Told Surrender Delay Will Spell Ruin

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Adm. Nomura, who was the last Japanese ambassador to the United States, has written an article which was broadcast by the Tokyo radio, to the effect that the unconditional surrender policy of the Allies would cost them higher casualties. The admiral took notice of the announced casualties on Okinawa and declared that higher casualties were coming, but conceded that the Allies had not yet been affected by war weariness.

Adm. Nomura's broadcast is significant because it indicates a possibility that the Japanese leaders are expecting a let-down of war effort in the next ninety days—the period that is admitted a critical one for Japan. Within that time she must make up her mind whether she will carry on a last-ditch war or surrender to the Allies.

Statement Broadcast

Appropos of the Nomura broadcast, this correspondent wrote a statement which the Office of War Information broadcast within the last twenty-four hours to the press. The full text of the statement follows:

"It is true," it says, "that the unconditional surrender policy will cost heavy losses to both sides but the American people have not made huge sacrifices already only to agree now to a compromise peace. They are determined to see it through no matter what the cost. Unless the Japanese surrender now the ratio of lives lost by the Japanese in the end will be many times that of the invading forces and the Japanese industrial plant and facilities for restoration of trade and commerce will be completely destroyed. No nation in the world will lend Japan any money for rehabilitation or post war recovery if she carries on a last-ditch fight and compels the Allies to incur heavy losses in lives. Japan's only chance for survival as an economic factor in the world lies in surrender not a year or two hence after Allied losses have been heavy, but now—in the next thirty to sixty days—before the political and international situation in the Far East grows complicated by the demands of other powers besides the United States."

Nomura's Opportunity

Adm. Nomura knows the American people. He knows the Japanese people. He has many friends in the United States who know how earnestly and faithfully he strove to prevent war between the two countries. He has an opportunity to make the facts clear now to his countrymen—an opportunity he may never have again as the big invasion of Japan is pressed. The admiral may rest assured that although the campaigns at Saipan, Iwo and Okinawa have been costly in lives to us we now have the big

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

SCOTLAND.—We dropped anchor today in the Firth of Clyde. The stock here concerning the weather is "If you can see the mountains it's going to rain. If you can't see the mountains, it's raining."

But, amazingly, it's a beautiful day which is very rare in this part of Scotland. In fact, when the sun first came out, twenty-three natives ran and hid in their cellars. They thought it was some new kind of secret weapon.

We sailed along the shore for a couple of hours. All the way, Scotsmen were standing on the bank waving flags at the ship. At least I thought they were waving flags until someone explained it was wash day and they were just drying their kilts.

Early this morning we sighted Ireland. We knew it was Ireland because as soon as they saw the English flag on the Queen Mary they ran out and started throwing potatoes at us.

I really don't have much time to concentrate on this column. It's our last day aboard ship and I've been pretty busy hiding from waiters and stewards. Besides, it's pretty smoky up here in the funnel.

We just went through the customs. It took quite a while. In fact the inspectors spent two hours just combing out Colonna's mustache. But fortunately they didn't find those four cartons of cigarettes. I'm carrying victory luggage this trip. It's wonderful what they're able to do with used paper towels these days. When the inspector got to my bags he didn't bother opening them. He just stuck his hand through the side and felt around.

We're anchored off Gurock now. "Gurock"—the way the Scotch pronounce it, sounds like they're trying to get a frog out of their throat. Harry Lauder lives ten miles from here on Dundoon. You remember Harry Lauder. He's an entertainer like Crosby; only more generous. It's about three now and we're scheduled to take the train for London at ten tonight. But we can't get off the boat until nine. The Scotch don't like tourists coming in and wearing out the sidewalks for nothing.

air bases from which to pulverize industry completely in Japan as we did in Germany. At no time since the war began have the Allied naval, military and aerial forces been working together more harmoniously or more efficiently and at no time have they had the weapons and the supplies they now possess for the successful invasion of Japan.

"President Truman's public pledge that the Japanese people will not be enslaved or destroyed is significant but every day that the Japanese delay their unconditional surrender the chances for Japanese survival as an economic factor in the world will tend to diminish. There is absolutely no other way out for Japan but unconditional surrender now and that means complete surrender, placing upon the governments of the United States and Great Britain the primary responsibility to exercise their own common sense and good judgment in dealing with the aftermath of war."

WAR has brought change to the farm. Pressing demands for more food has hastened the shift to mechanical and electric power, streamlined production, speeded marketing schedules.

War has brought change to the telephone business, too—enormous demands for service and communication equipment for the armed forces, shortage of facilities for civilian use.

Nevertheless, we are busy now planning how to provide a telephone for every farm family that wants one. Telephone research is developing new ideas that will help—how to send telephone messages over electric power lines—stronger wire that takes fewer poles—radiotelephones.

When the war is won—and manpower and materials are again available—we'll be ready to go!

Divorce Granted Gertrude Harmon In Circuit Court

A divorce was granted in circuit court Monday to a 19-year-old Cresaptown girl from her husband who has been stationed in China with the army for the last two years.

The girl, Gertrude Clara (Ilie) Harmon, filed a cross complaint in the case brought by her husband, Carl Leslie Harmon.

Mrs. Harmon, whose maiden name was restored to her in the decree written by Chief Judge William A. Huster, testified that she and her husband were married at Cresaptown around Christmas in 1942 in the Assembly of God Church and that her husband joined the army after they had lived together for two days.

"About three months after he joined the army he told me he was through with me," Mrs. Harmon testified "and later he filed a bill accusing me of running around."

Mrs. Harmon said she wrote to her husband saying that "he was all wrong" and when he came home on furlough "I went to him and tried to get him to make up but he wouldn't even speak to me."

Other evidence was given supporting Mrs. Harmon's testimony and Judge Huster awarded a decree to Mrs. Harmon on her cross bill of complaint. She did not ask alimony. Estel C. Kelley represented Mrs. Harmon and Charles G. Watson was counsel for the soldier absent in China.

Divorce Awarded McKee
In another divorce action, Judge Huster awarded a decree to J. Walter McKee, Cumberland, an employee of the B. and O. Railroad, who brought action against Mrs. Nellie B. McKee. McKee charged that his wife left him, taking their nine-and-a-half year old daughter with her.

The decree awarded McKee the custody of the child with the wife having the right to have the child on alternate weekends and for several weeks during the summer providing she has a "fit and proper home."

Paul M. Fletcher was counsel for McKee and William C. Walsh represented Mrs. McKee.

In another action, Judge Huster awarded a decree to Mrs. Ruth E. Wilson, 20, of Route 2, from Howard V. Wilson. The couple was married on Christmas day two years ago. The action was filed in the name of her mother, Mrs. Flora J. Jenkins, since the plaintiff is still a minor. The young wife, represented by Edwin M. Horchler, said they lived together until April 8 of this year. She said her husband had failed to support her.

A divorce was granted to Mrs. Esther L. Smith, Bedford road, from Carl W. Smith, in which she was awarded the custody of two children, aged eight and six. Smith was ordered to pay $18 a week for support of the children and to pay the costs of the proceedings.

The wife, represented by Clarence Shutter, said they were married December 30, 1936, and lived together until last September.

Mrs. Zelma I. Courtney, Independence street, was awarded a divorce from Lester E. Courtney, and was given the right to resume her maiden name, Zelma Hoyt. He was ordered to pay the costs of the case. Cruelty was alleged by the wife represented by Edward J. Ryan. They were married December 30, 1938, in Cumberland, and lived together until January, 1941. The wife cited that Courtney had attempted to gain a divorce on the ground of desertion but that it was denied.

Suit for partial divorce was filed by Mrs. Pearl Dolan against Herman Dolan, Maryland avenue. Mrs. Dolan's counsel, Edward J. Ryan, said they were married August 23, 1930, in Cumberland, and lived together until March 21 of this year at Seibert, Md. She asks for the custody of their children, 14, 12, and 3 years old.

Mrs. Theresa Margaret Seders, of this city, who filed suit May 7 for a partial divorce from Ralph Edward Seders, has filed an amended bill of complaint asking for an absolute decree on the grounds that she has obtained additional evidence. Estel C. Kelly is her counsel with Horchler representing the husband.

Mrs. Opal Daubach filed suit for a divorce from Edward V. Daubach, of this city. The action was entered by her sister, Mrs. Pearl Thacker, since she is still under 21 years of age. Her attorney, Horchler, said they were married August 19, 1943, in Cumberland and lived together until June 26 of this year.

New Suits Filed
Mrs. Canzadia Crowl, Cumberland, filed suit against Robert Crowl, but grounds were not revealed by her counsel, Ryan. Other cases docketed but in which no papers were filed included:

Charles E. Foy against Iva Mae Foy.
Mrs. Mary L. Van Natta represented by William F. McHugh against David E. Van Natta.

James O. Spiker, Jr., against Mrs. Pauline J. Spiker.

Jane Nichols Will Become Bride of Connecticut Man

Ceremony Will Be Solemnized Here in the Near Future

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Deal, LaVale, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lt. (j.g.) Jane Nichols, to Edgar J. Young, pharmacist, mate 2-c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Young, 21 South Whitney street, Hartford, Conn.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at a 9 o'clock nuptial mass in St. Patrick's Catholic church here in the near future.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Catholic Girls Central high school, class of 1940 and of Allegheny Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1943. She was on duty in surgery at Allegheny from September 9 until her resignation. Enlisting in the United States Navy Nursing Corps on her twenty-first birthday, October 24, 1943, she received her commission as an ensign at Portsmouth, Va., naval hospital, where she was senior nurse in eye, ear, nose and throat surgery, for a year.

Leaving for overseas January 26, 1945 she was assigned to the Eighth fleet and was stationed in the Oran, North Africa, base hospital, until the nurses were evacuated and returned to the states May 26 of this year. While overseas she and three other nurses, were given a fifteen day leave and flew to Rome, Italy. They also visited Naples and the Isle of Capri. She has received the European Theater ribbon and the Victory ribbon. After a short leave home Lt. Nichols has been on temporary duty at Bainbridge, since June 13.

Mate Young is a graduate of Boys high school of Hartford and studied at Harvard university. Entering the service approximately three years ago, he was stationed at the base hospital in Oran, North Africa, a little over two years. He has recently been assigned to an LST based in the Mediterranean. He wears the ETO ribbon and the Victory ribbon and arrived in Portsmouth last week.

HOW SMART ARE YOU?

Many smart, if you are one of the thousands of girls and women who have found blessed relief from "monthly grumps" in Chi-Ches-Ters Pills. Of course, they do not correct organic menstrual conditions that require consultation with your doctor. But they do help to relieve the discomfort of functional pains, cramps, headaches and nervousness that frequently accompany the normal menstrual period. Taken according to directions, preferably two or three days in advance of your time, Chi-Ches-Ters Pills tend to relax the muscular contraction that is often the cause of unnecessary distress. An added iron ingredient helps promote resistance and energy. Before suffering again ask your druggist for Chi-Ches-Ters Pills, and accept no substitute. Caution: Use only as directed.

Girl Scouts Plan Elaborate Program

The Girl Scouts opened its second week at camp yesterday with eighty-one children and fourteen counselors attending. Mrs. Seth Bowen, director, reported last evening.

Plans were outlined for the special program to be given at the close of the activities Friday at 3:30 o'clock at the Kiwanis Sunshine camp site. Mrs. Bowen said last evening that the program and exhibits of handicraft will be more elaborate this year than former years as the established camp was not held this summer. Besides the programs by the various units, Sgt. Diane J. Roberts of the local army recruiting station, will also have a special drill.

Woodcraft and nature study featured the handicraft of Unit 2 yesterday, when the children made leaf prints, for which they will receive credit for their Tree Finders badge.

Unit 1 worked on its dramatics for the camp fire program, which will be about Lord Baltimore and for which credits will be given for the Dramatics badge.

The little Brownies of Unit 3 worked on their dramatics and arts and crafts, making plaster of Paris plaques of leaves and flowers.

Brother and Sister Have Surprise Reunion Monday

Cpl. Richard Anderson Is Honored at Informal Party by Parents

Cpl. Richard Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, 822 Greene street, had a surprise and happy reunion several hours before he expected it Monday evening.

Returning from seven months overseas Cpl. Anderson was having dinner in a Baltimore and Ohio diner when his sister, Mrs. Thomas L. Rudd and Miss Elsie Lou Hendrickson of Moorefield, W. Va., returning from a vacation in Atlantic City, N. J., entered.

Although Cpl. Anderson's back was toward his sister when she entered the diner, she recognized him and rushed up and embraced him, for as she said afterwards she knew there was only one person in the world with such black curly hair. Cpl. Anderson laughingly remarked he was wondering if it was a new American custom since the war.

At the informal party held at the home of his parents upon his arrival Cpl. Anderson spoke briefly of his service overseas remarking "it was pretty rough." He did however declare that anyone who says he was in combat and was not scared is not telling the truth, for one just "cannot help being scared to death." He also told of the astonishment of the Germans when the American boys would take time to play with the little children, for he said the German people just do not take the time to play with them.

Refreshments were served to the eighteen guests attending the party, and assorted garden flowers centered the table.

In the army two years last month, Cpl. Anderson was stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., until last Christmas when he was sent overseas as a gunner on a tank with the One-hundred Seventy-seventh Tank Battalion of the Sixty-ninth division in the First army. He received the ETO ribbon with three combat stars for the Ruhr Valley, Rhineland and Central Germany campaigns, and the Good Conduct medal. He returned to Boston last week and is home on a thirty day delayed enroute before reporting to a station on the West coast.

Among the souvenirs he brought home are guns, knives, rings, watches and Nazi flags.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have three other sons in service. Sgt. Fred H. Anderson, specialist technician on a C 54, who has served with the 360 Bomb Group in England for the past four years. He recently was sent on special assignment to Dakar, Africa, and while there servicing a plane discovered it was piloted by an old friend, Capt. J. H. Rannels of Romney, W. Va., who flies a Transport Command from Casablanca to Brazil.

T-5 Harry Anderson who will be in the service for three years next month has been in the Asiatic theater of war since early in 1944. He first served in Burma with the Twenty-fourth Ordnance M. M. Command and was later transferred to Assam. Recently he asked for a transfer back to Burma and plans to go to Calcutta on furlough soon.

The third son, Bruce Anderson, A. S., was inducted June 6 and is stationed at Bainbridge for boot training.

Women of Moose To Name Chairmen Tomorrow

The Women of the Moose, Chapter 914, will meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the home, Beall and Smallwood streets, at which time Mrs. Gertrude Williams, senior regent, will preside.

Chairmen will be appointed for the ensuing year, and initiations will be held following the business session.

C. G. Peer Weds Miss Helen Bosley

Miss Helen G. Bosley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Bosley, Wiley Ford, W. Va., became the bride of Clarence George Peer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Peer, also of Wiley Ford, on July 3.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shanholz in Wiley Ford with the Rev. Vernon Shanholz officiating.

Mr. Peer recently was discharged from the army after serving thirty-three months overseas.

Patricia Ann Powell Celebrates Her Birthday

A birthday party was given in honor of Patricia Ann Powell in celebration of her eleventh birthday, Saturday, by her mother, Mrs. William A. Powell, at their home, 323 Baltimore avenue.

Among the gifts Patricia Ann received was a gold locket with the quartermaster corps insignia, from her father, Pfc. William A. Powell, who is now serving with the ASPTCTG company at Port Francis Warren, Wyo.

Various games were played and prizes were won by Eleanor Taylor, Deloris Welsh and Diana Thomas. A yellow and green color scheme was carried out in the decorations and repeated in the birthday cake and candles. Covers were laid for twenty-two guests.

Engineering Club To Hold Ladies Night on July 18

Special Agent of the FBI Will Be Guest Speaker at Dinner

The Engineering Club of Cumberland will entertain the wives and girl friends of members at a "Ladies Night" dinner at 6:30 o'clock July 18 at the All Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Richard G. Sullivan, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation from Baltimore, will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "Juvenile Delinquency and Its Effect upon the Postwar Social Development."

Joseph Duckworth will preside and William Stern, program chairman, will be in charge of arrangements. Reservations have been made for seventy guests.

An informal social hour will conclude the evening.

Demonstrations Will Feature 4-H Meeting

The Pleasant Valley 4-H Girls Club will meet at the home of Faith Manges, Pleasant Valley road, at 4 o'clock, July 19, at which time each member will give a demonstration.

Janice Raines was taken in as a new member at the meeting held recently at the home of Norita Davis. It was also reported that three members of the club attended the 4-H camp in Garrett county.

R.A. To Hold Picnic Meeting Tomorrow

The Royal Ambassador Boys of the First Baptist church will hold a recreational period and be guests of the Women's Missionary Society at a picnic supper tomorrow afternoon at Constitution park, in place of the regular Wednesday evening meeting at the church.

Swimming and ball games will feature the entertainment during the afternoon, after which the picnic supper will be served at 5:30 o'clock.

Clothes and Not Another Woman Cause Alienation

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Scraps and shreds of this story have come to me from several sources, but if you don't like stories with a moral, pass it up. It also refutes the claim "your best friend won't tell you"—her's did. It concerns a family we'll call Smith, because that isn't their name.

The Smiths have two sons serving in the army. Colonel Smith, the husband, served in the first World war, and is now retired. The other day they had a wedding anniversary and the colonel invited his wife to have lunch with him.

Delighted, she went to buy herself a new hat for the occasion. Of rather florid complexion, and distinctly on the plump side, her blue-white hair was elaborately arranged. Not at all a bad looker if she had not decided to imitate herself on the altar of prevailing styles.

A Deranged Hat

Her selection was not much larger than a silver dollar; the crown would almost have fitted in your coin purse. The saleslady went into ecstasies over the little number as she pinned it over the victim's left ear. The hat inspired a short dress of violent plaid. Sustained by the thought a woman is no older than she feels, Mrs. Smith went forth to meet her husband for the anniversary lunch, planning for more deranged hats and shorter skirts.

At the club she noticed that other women, some of whom were acquaintances, all seemed to rush to the windows, as if a parade were passing, when they saw her.

Presently came the colonel who quailed before his lady-wife as he had never quailed before the enemy. He gasped, he spluttered, then suggested that they lunch elsewhere. The food at the club wasn't up to the mark lately, and he thought they might enjoy going to one of those sea-food places along the Potomac fish wharf.

"Other Woman" Worry

A bit surprised, Mrs. Smith agreed. She wasn't thrilled about displaying her latest style show at a wharf restaurant, but consoled herself with the thought some men don't want their wives to wear becoming clothes and look young.

Then Mrs. Smith began to worry about "the other woman." Never had the colonel neglected her so completely before. You see he was one of those reserved men who couldn't bear to hurt his wife's feeling, after twenty-five years of marriage.

He didn't take her out so often. Here really was no other woman. But she did have a best friend who had the courage to tell her, and now the woman-no-older-than-she-feels outfit has been sent in a box to the refugees. Heaven help them!

LISTEN WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

DON'T BE TOO SMART!

I used to wonder why people didn't like me more.

Of course I realized there were a few flaws in my perfection. But surely my virtues more than offset my vices. Look at my honesty and my generosity and my sympathetic understanding. And the lovely things I liked to do for everybody. So on and on, until I was completely sold on my own magnificence.

But unfortunately, that's where I stopped. I might be sold on myself—but the general public wasn't. Some discriminating citizens seemed to appreciate me but most of them remained distinctly cool. Even the ones I'd helped most and pulled out of the worst scrapes failed to recognize me as a Public Benefactor. In short, I was getting exactly nowhere—fast.

Not a very successful situation! But nothing lasts forever, so little by little I began to get wise. Maybe these delightful qualities of which I was so proud weren't such a treat after all. Perhaps I wasn't such a little Ray of Sunshine as I thought! I began to look around and note the reactions. And day by day my face grew redder and redder.

Take that advice I was so keen on handing out. . . take that superior strength which was so eager to help others out of trouble. . . were these making a hit with my weaker neighbors? They were not. They were making me more unpopular by the hour. Far from considering me a public benefactor, they considered me a smarty who liked to show off to please herself and hog the spotlight.

AND THE WORST OF IT WAS—IT WAS REALLY TRUE!

I had never seen myself in that light before. I had thought I was rendering real service to my fellow men when I was actually humiliating and irritating them. With each superior act I mounted a little higher on my self-made pedestal and pushed the other fellow a little deeper in the gutter. And right then and there I learned a lesson which I fervently hope I shall never forget.

It has been said, and truly, that it is more blessed to give than to receive. But I had forgotten the accompanying truth—that it's also a lot more fun. We may need wisdom, we may need help in emergencies. But it's always much more gratifying to be on the giving end of the line than on the receiving. And no normal human is going to be continuously grateful to the guy who always proves to be a little smarter and stronger than himself. Why should he be? Self respect is the strongest force in any man's life and we all resent the chap who belittles it. As snooty benefactors always do.

Are you a little less popular than you'd like to be? Do people back track when they see you coming and seem more than a little cool when you ladle out your wisdom? Then maybe you'd better read this article again. As a horrible example I can tell you a lot—and how!

Summonses Will Be Issued Motorists Without Tax Stamp

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP)—George Hofferbert, collector of internal revenue, said today that beginning Wednesday motorists who failed to display a $5 federal automobile use tax stamp would be issued summonses.

He said the present warning cards would be discontinued and that a record would be kept of each summons issued.

Failure to purchase the stamp, he said, would result to a $25 fine or a possible jail sentence.

New Farm Loans To Experienced Vets Available

OAKLAND, July 10 — A program of farm loans to servicemen returning to agriculture was announced yesterday by William H. Babylon, county supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

The loans, entirely separate from the GI Bill of Rights transactions made under the Bankhead-Farm Tenant act, which FSA administers, and provide forty-three per-cent credit to experienced farmers who cannot arrange satisfactory credit elsewhere.

Babylon emphasized that loans would be made only to veterans with satisfactory farm experience and training. The qualifications of applicants will be approved by the County FSA Committee.

three experienced local farmers, the Allegany County Commissioners are: Wilbur Perrin, Flint James H. Weimer, Mt. St. Maryland and William E. Shum Route 3, Keyser, W. Va. (Allegany County).

"Veterans with the necessary experience and ability will find farm tenant loans highly satisfactory," Babylon said. "The long payment term, the variable repayment feature and the aid and guidance available through

The Bankhead-Jones Act appropriation for the new fiscal year, which started July 1 contained an item of $25,000,000 earmarked for loans to veterans, Babylon explained. The funds will be available to the office here shortly after the date.

The County FSA committee will study the veteran's application and also the farm which he proposed to buy with the loan. The committee will then recommend to the

"The committee will be a d barrelled protection. Not only its members make sure the veteran is protected from 'get quick' land sharks and real promoters, but it will also keep a serviceman with more enthusiasm than experience.

County Supervisor Babylon office is located in the post office building, Room 2 (basement). The office is open on the first and third Saturdays of each month from 10:00 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

International Survey Gives U. S. Top Rating in Postwar Influence.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 10—Which nation will have most influence in world affairs after the war—the United States, or Russia?

An international poll conducted jointly by affiliates of the Institute in four foreign countries shows that the people of France, Canada, Sweden and Denmark rate the United States first in future world influence, with Russia second, and Britain a lagging third.

These results—evidence of the extent to which the peoples of the world look to the United States for leadership—give added emphasis to President Truman's speech to the Senate in which he said that the eyes of all nations are focused on the Senate debate over American adherence to the San Francisco charter.

One interesting sidelight of the international poll is the extent to which the people of France have been impressed by Russia. The figures show that although America is named most often as the influential power, Russia is a close second and gets about twice as many votes in France as in any other country polled on the question.

Studies of international opinion have been made possible by the forming of permanent poll taking organizations in a total of six countries besides the United States. The results of today's poll were gathered by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, the French Institute of Public Opinion, the Svenska Gallup Institutet, the Dansk Gallup Institut, and the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Andrew G. Bender, Jr., 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Bender, Sr., 425 Greene street, will report at the local navy recruiting station this morning with a group of eleven before proceeding to Baltimore for enlistment in the navy.

A 1945 graduate of Allegheny high school, Bender will be assigned to general service with the naval reserve.

"UNBLOCK" YOUR DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And where it gets blocked when it fails to digest properly.

Thus, what you want for real relief is not soda or an alkalizer—you want something to "unblock" your intestinal tract. Something to clean it out thoroughly and help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and thoroughly "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits your food to move along normally. Nature's own digestive juices can then reach it—and you get genuine relief that makes you feel really good again.

Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore—25¢. "Unblock" your intestinal tract for real relief from indigestion.

Tweel Is Heavy Hope Hails from Huntington
So Did Kearney, Perdue
Set Off Dynamite Here

West Virginia has a new heavyweight hope in the person of Tweel, of Huntington, who holds a medical discharge from the United States Navy.

Before entering the service Tweel won the heavyweight championship in the novice division of the state Golden Gloves tournament in 1942 and the same honors in the A. U. tournament in Charleston the same year.

While in San Antonio, Texas, for training he boxed a two-round exhibition with Joe Louis, managed by Jack Sheppard, former welterweight champion of West Virginia. Tweel, is twenty-two years old, stands five feet eleven inches and tips the scales at 200 pounds.

Boxing fans of this section have not forgotten that two of the most sensational knockouts ever scored in Cumberland rings were credited to a pair of wallflowers out of Huntington, W. Va.

Who could ever forget the night that Mike Kearney, floored seven times and staggering about the ring like a drunken sailor, brought one up from the floor to the chin of Dick Evans, of Youngstown, and clouted him so hard that he failed to regain consciousness until ten minutes after he had been counted out? Evans had hit Kearney with everything but the ring stool for seven heats before a single punch dropped the Ohioan as though he had been hit with an axe.

The other package of "dynamite" sent here from Huntington was baby-faced welterweight named Jimmy Perdue. They tossed him in with a ringwise Johnny King, of Fayette City, Pa., that night.

King had held his own with the best 147-pounders of his day and he was so confident of polishing off the fresh kid from Huntington that he purchased a block of ringside seats for his friends from Pennsylvania. Perdue, that many fans had to look twice on the floor of the ring to make sure their eyes had not deceived them. Yes sir, that was King all right, kayaved for the first time by a kid not long out of high school.

When the Pennsylvania shook the cobwebs from his brain he mumbled to his seconds and others who crowded about him: "What happened?"

After being informed that Perdue knocked him out, King still in a bewildered state of mind, refused to believe it. Tears were streaming down his cheeks as his seconds led him from the ring to the dressing room.

Mike Walker, the one-time "Toy Bulldog" of the ring, and former middleweight crown wearer, had advocated that five per cent of a fighter's purse and the same amount of his manager's be retained in a fund for the boxer after he retires, citing the many cases in which a fighter had earned a considerable amount of money but found himself broke when too old to continue in the ring.

Albert boxing managers will rally to this idea.

The latest golf yarn is about a banker who, after a series of lessons from a leading professional, went out on the links, proudly took his stance, swung the club a few times, then turned to his caddy and asked expectantly: "Notice anything different about me today?" The caddy: "Yessir." The banker, swelling: "What?" The caddy: "You've had your hair cut!"

John W. Snyder, of "Maryland," My Maryland fame, has given up his search for a new heavyweight boxing contender. After beating the bushes without success he has tossed in the sponge. He now spends his leisure moments listening to Bill Gunter's V-E day speech, the transcription of which he has about worn out from playing it so many times. The one-time flaccid impresario is particularly interested in that part of the speech where Mr. Gunter proceeds to give one Adolf Schickelgruber the "woika."

"That fellow Gunter should have been a surprise fighter," Snyder remarks. "His speech is a knockout."

Boston Red Sox Conquer Braves In War Fund Till

22,809 See Sockers Win, 8 to 1; Metkovich Hits for Circuit

By BILL KING

BOSTON, July 10 (AP)—All that remained of baseball's cancelled all-star game—the feature act, a pitching-batting duel between Boston's Dave (Doc) Ferriss and Tommy Holmes, thrilled a 22,809 crowd on the original Fenway park stage today as the Red Sox defeated the Braves, 8-1, in their war fund intra-city exhibition.

Red Socker Ferriss, the major's top pitcher, gave but two hits for no runs while right-handing the first three innings. He made Holmes, baseball's best slugger, fly out to center but Tommy, who has hit safely in his last thirty-seven National league engagements, managed to collect his daily safety off Randy Hefflin in the sixth inning, much to the delight of the spectators, whose contributions are expected to exceed $70,000.

Among the other highlights of the dream game's substitution were the presence of Baseball Commissioner "Happy" Chandler, a host of Boston baseball immortals and the hit young Jack Tobin of the Red Sox made against older brother Jim of the Braves.

When Jack came to bat in the sixth, Boston's famed muscular baseball trio, a unit that never misses a game at either park, looked "brother can you spare a dime." And Brother Jim obliged with no more and no less, for Jack managed to tap one of his butterfly pitches for a dinky roller through the box, a 10-cent hit in any league.

The ball game was decided in the second inning, when the Sockers scored their first two runs on a hit and four passes, the last one coming with the bases loaded.

North End Is Winner In Cradle League Game

Tom Oglebay racked up his fourth victory against one defeat yesterday when he hurled North End to a 9 to 1 triumph over West Side in a Cradle League game on Allegheny field. The winning twirler struck out nine.

George McGregor paced the North End attack with three hits in four trips. Paul McGregor had two for four, one being a triple, and Bob McGreevy connected for two singles in three times at bat.

Chuck Sitter fanned nine and Bob Wood whiffed two North End batters. Ronnie Ingram and Flynn made the two hits credited to the losers. Score: North End 9, West Side 1.

O came through once and Hot Pole, a two-year-old showed on two occasions. Keegan vows that he's going to get Ted O or Hot Pole in the money at Fairgo next month if he has to come out of retirement and don the boots and saddles once again.

Paul Krichell, chief scout for the New York Yankees, who paid numerous visits here in 1931 and 1932 when the American league club operated a "farm" here, has been in baseball for forty-one years, twenty-five of them as a scout.

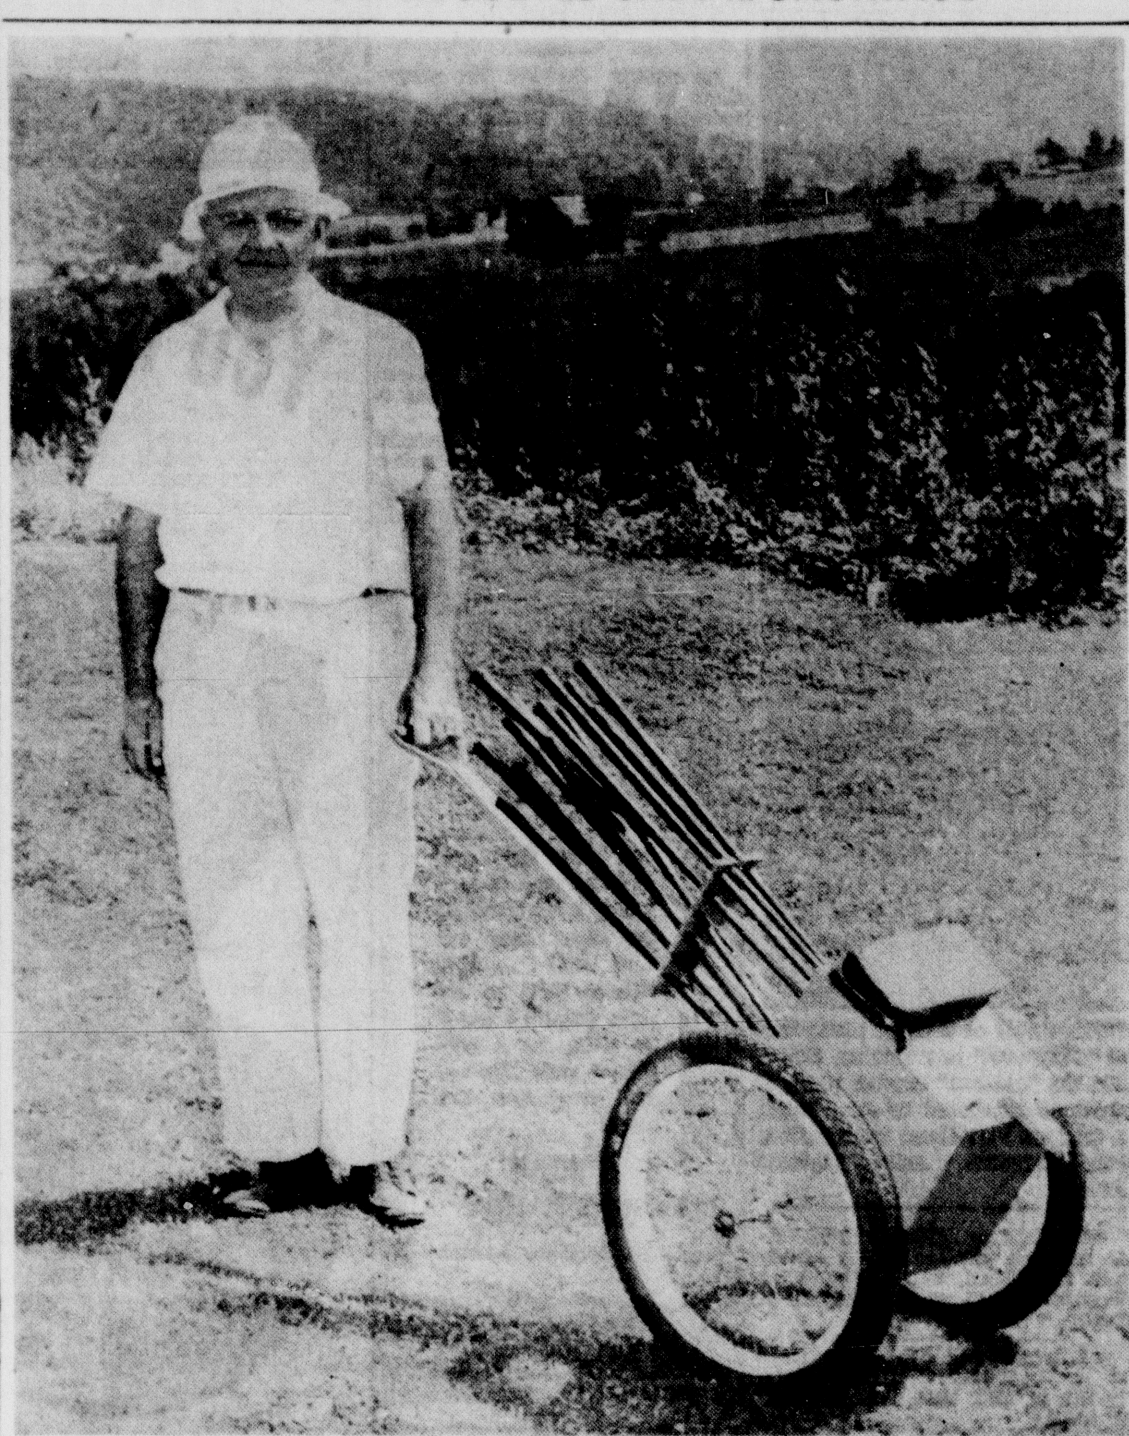

"I knew it wouldn't be steady from the start," Krichell tells his friends whenever they ask him how long he has been connected with baseball.

During his recent visit here, Sammy Angott, of Washington, Pa., former NBA highlight champion said that he once owned a horse named "Sammy Angott."

"I put it in charge of a fellow on the Pacific Coast before I came east," Sammy said. Several days later he received the following wire:

"Sorry I lost your horse today. Put him in a claiming race and you know the rest."

LOCAL GOLFER SOLVES CADDIE SHORTAGE

THERE'S A SHORTAGE of caddies so C. H. Griggs, of 610 Louisiana avenue, who doesn't like to carry a golf bag, spent a couple of evenings the first part of the season assembling twenty-two inch bicycle wheels, some plywood, part of a broom handle and a shaving kit bag (for tees and balls) to make the pictured substitute caddy. Griggs is shown at the Cumberland Country Club with his answer to the caddy shortage, the idea for which he picked up at Chautauqua, N. Y., last year. The balanced gadget holds fourteen clubs, handles up to put the weight on the wheels. The rack is made so that the clubs cannot slip out.

Twilight Games At Detroit Park Increase Crowds

Average of 20,462 Cash Customers See Seven 6 p. m. Contests

By FRANK KENNEDY

(Pitch-hitting for Whitney Martin) DETROIT, July 10 (AP)—Twilight baseball in the major leagues, no great shakes as a crowd magnet anywhere except in Detroit, where there are no night games, might easily carry the Tigers of 1945 to their best home attendance record in history.

Seven 6 p. m. games here in June and July drew a record total of 143,236 cash customers—an average of 20,462—and brought the club a $49,111 paid total for the first half of its home schedule. Detroit's record attendance for a full season—1,112,693—was established in 1940, the Tigers' last gay year.

Because the twilight season at Briggs stadium can be stretched over only about sixty days of the baseball campaign, General Manager Jack Zeller declares the Tigers won't attempt to enlarge the program for 1946.

"The fans have proved they like it, but that's no excuse to work a good horse to death," Zeller explains. "Seven twilight games a season are enough—one with each club."

All Field, No Hit Detroit's puny punchers of this season, leading the American league by 4½ games while hitting .251 as a club, are bush leaguers at the plate compared to the Tigers of 1934, who compiled a team batting average of an even 300 in winning the pennant by seven games.

Second Baseman Eddie Mayo, leading the 1945 club at bat with a .293 mark, would be batting eighth among the Tiger regulars of eleven years ago, six of whom finished the season over 300 as Charley Gehringer belted 356 and Hank Greenberg 339.

The 1934 Tigers compiled a .300 average in the league's batting "firsts," leading in runs, hits, and bases and runs batted in. Only categories this year's Detroit club paces are defensive ones. There's a lot of difference between those two Tiger clubs besides the eleven years.

Manager Steve O'Neill is faced with a real Tiger twister: How to choose between two left-fielders who can hit (Hank Greenberg 286 and Jimmy Outlaw 284) and two shortstops who can't (Skeeter Webb 192 and Ace Hoover 178).

James (Hack) Miller, Detroit's third string catcher, got his big chance against the Red Sox when regulars Paul Richards and Bob Swift both were out with injuries. Miller whacked out three hits in four trips and there were no flaws in his catching. His reward? Richards and Swift were both ready for action the following day and Miller may not get back of the plate again this season.

Three of days in a row this week are plenty welcome to Hank Greenberg, who rushed his comeback conditioning program after his release from the army and has blisters on both hands, a sore throwing arm and a charley horse in each leg.

Mort Cooper Suffers From Strained Elbow

ST. LOUIS, July 10 (AP)—Dr. Robert Hyland said today Pitcher Mort Cooper of the Boston Braves was suffering from a strained right elbow which was responding satisfactorily to treatment.

Hyland said he hoped to have Cooper in shape to rejoin the Braves when they arrive Sunday for a four-game series with the Cardinals.

North End Colts Top Bedford Road

Stellar relief pitching by Bob Powers, Jim Clark's hitting and a leaping one-handed catch by Joe Reissig were the highlights of a Midget Baseball League contest yesterday at Stitzer field in which the North End Colts were returned winners over Bedford Road in an extra inning contest by the score of 9 to 8.

Bedford road tied the score at 7-7 by chasing over one run in the last of the seventh and in the overtime heat the Colts pushed across two tallies to put the game on ice.

North End scored its first run in the extra frame when George Helms walked, moved to second on Welsh's hit and continued home while the first baseman of Bedford Road argued with the umpire after the latter had called Welsh safe.

Bedford Road scored one tally and the tying run on third base in the last of the eighth when Reissig saved the day with a nifty running catch in the outfield.

Bob Powers as relief pitcher chucked up his fourth straight victory. Clark led the attack with two singles and a double in four trips while Kerr starred for the losers by applying a double and triple. The Colts have won five of their last six games and now have a season's record of seven wins and ten losses. Score by innings:

NORTH END 000 02 02 02 4 10 4 BEDFORD ROAD 000 00 00 00 0 0 0 Batteries: North End—Powers, B. Powers and A. Martin. Bedford Road—Bierne, Posselt, Crabtree and Lilly.

Army To Release Briggs

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Major W. O. "Spike" Briggs, Jr., vice-president of the Detroit baseball team, is being released from the army, he disclosed today.

Briggs has been in service since 1942 as an armament expert in the air corps and served in England before being reassigned to Washington. He will be on terminal leave until September 18.

Byron Nelson's Late Rally Ties Johnny Revolta

PGA Tourney Stars Conclude Qualifying Round with Score of 138

By HAROLD HARRISON

DAYTON, O., July 10 (AP)—Byron Nelson, the man with the miseries in his back, made his "last chance" good today and scored a spectacular eagle three on the seventeenth hole to wind up in a tie with Johnny Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., for medalist honors at the twenty-seventh annual Professional Golf Tournament.

Nelson, the Toledo umbrella man, blistered the Moraine country club's course for a 68 as he and Revolta finished the two days of qualifying play with 138 strokes each.

Revolta, who won the PGA in 1935, had 18-hole rounds of 68-70, just the reserve of Nelson's performance. Nelson won in 1940.

Shute Trails with 140 Sgt. E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of Dayton's Wright field, finished a stroke behind with 139 and in the 140 shot was Denny, Shute, of Akron, O., the first day leader and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Philadelphia.

The fireworks, however, came from Nelson, who last night had to take catapathic treatments to ease the pain of a pulled back muscle.

Moving to the seventeenth tee, Byron was two strokes behind Revolta. "I said to myself, 'this is my last chance,'" Nelson related.

The seventeenth is a 455-yard, par five affair and Byron, following his drive with a four wood shot, laid on 30 feet from the pin and then rolled in the putt for his eagle three, which deadlocked him with Revolta.

On the 430-yard eighteenth, Byron's second shot was forty feet from the cup and his putt, which would have sent him out in front of Revolta, stopped inches short of the hole but in a perfect line.

"Man, that one would have gone in if I had just hit it a little harder," Nelson said.

And about that aching back. "I don't care, I'll shoot a 65. I don't see how I played," the husky native Texan reported. "It doesn't seem to affect my play but it really hurts."

He said treatments taken last night failed to relieve any of his pain and he figured he'd just go ahead and suffer out the remainder of the week.

It took a 36-hole score of 148 to get into match play and two of the lads who had those counts—Jimmy Hines of Chicago and Dick Shoemaker of Cranford, Pa.—lost out in a playoff among ten players for the last eight positions.

Both Hines and Shoemaker went on to the first playoff hole. Hines missed the green with his second shot to take a one-over-par five and Shoemaker three-putted for his five.

The eight who made the grade in the playoff included Bob Kepler of Columbus, the young fellow who last month coached Ohio State university's golf team to a national intercollegiate championship.

The elimination of Hines brought to seven the number of golf's big name players who failed to qualify for match play.

Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., didn't even finish his first 18-hole round yesterday and the other five major casualties were Jimmy Thomson of New York, recently discharged from the merchant marine; Tony Manero of Greenwich, Conn., former national open champion; Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the duration national open king; Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., runner-up for the PGA title in 1933; and Joe Turnesa of Rockville Center, N. Y., runner-up for the open championship in 1926.

The draw for match play, starting tomorrow, pitted Nelson against Gene Sarazen of New York, the man who still wears knickerbockers when he plays golf and who won the PGA crown in 1922, 1923 and 1933. Sarazen qualified with a 36-hole score of 147.

Revolta was drawn against Frank K. of Linden, N. J., another 147 shooter.

Pvt. Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., and Fort Lewis, Wash., the defending champion, was matched against Jack Groat of Hinsdale, Ill., also in the 147 department.

Hamilton, an automatic qualifier, played out the 36 holes in the hopes of sharpening up his game and finished with 72-74-146.

League Will Meet Managers of the Midget Baseball League will meet today at 8:30 p. m. in the Central YMCA to discuss matters of importance.

RIDES 72 WINNERS

BOBBY EDENS

Riding the final three winners on the closing program at Charles Town, Monday, Apprentice Jockey Robert Edens, of Big Stone Gap, Va., tied the record for the West Virginia racing oval. He brought his total to seventy-two to match the 1943 performance of Jockey Buddy Root. According to Greg Johnson, race publicity expert for the Cumberland track, Edens will be among the members of the riding colony at Fairgo when the ten-day meet opens on Tuesday, August 7.

Midland Manager Wields Axe; Nine Get Pink Slips

Bobby Blair Signs Davis; Lonaconing Releases Two Players

Manager Bobby Blair, of the Midland Indians, of the Pen-Mar Baseball League wielded the axe yesterday in announcing the release of nine players.

Those handed pink slips included the veteran Pat Corrigan, Robert McCutcheon, John Taylor, Gene Haines, Robert Moffett, John Morgan, Frank Buskirk, George Blair and Jack Kirkwood.

Blair has advised Carl "Pete" Dicken, league secretary, that Harry Davis, of Keyser, has been added to the Midland roster.

The shakeup is the outgrowth of the Tribe's poor showing in games played to date. In the first half race the Indians dropped right out of ten games played and went down to defeat last Sunday at the second half race last Sunday.

Dicken also received word from Lefty Grove, manager of the Lonaconing Republican Club, effect that releases were handed to Jack Evans and William S. Smith.

Lonaconing bagged four decisions in ten starts in the first half and launched its second half drive Sunday with a 19 to 6 triumph over Centerville.

In league contests scheduled for next Sunday, Lonaconing will play host to Froburg Legion, the Cumberland Legion will play the Queen City Brewers here and Midland will oppose the first half champions in Centerville.

Dodger Is Injured

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Leroy Pfund, Brooklyn pitcher, threw his knee out of joint in fielding a bunt by Jose Zardón in the second inning of tonight's war relief game between the Dodgers and Washington's Senators.

Pfund, who had won three games and lost two for the Dodgers, was carried from the field by his team mates.

The Woodmen strengthened their hold on first place in the Rocking Chair football League yesterday by defeating the B.P.O. Elks on Allegheny field by the score of 7 to 2.

Hobell, Woodmen pitcher, was accorded fine support and was materially aided by several fast double plays and Joe Derson's work in the outfield.

Swamping the Cumberland Outdoor Club by the score of 20 to 1 on Fort Hill field, the Moose pulled to within a half game of the runner-up Elks. The winners pounded out twenty hits, Minnick and Thomas heading the assault with three each. The setback was the seventeenth in a row for the Outdoor club.

Texcel staged a three-run rally in the last half of the seventh to come from behind and eke out a 6 to 5 decision over the Knights of Columbus at Community Park. Long, of the Casey's, was the only player on this contest with more than one hit.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my son, John J.
 Higgins, who passed away two years ago,
 July 11, 1943.

You cannot say, you must not say that he is dead. He is just away!
 With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, he has wandered into an unknown land.

So think of him faring on, as dear in the love of there, as the love of here.
 Think of him still as the same, and say he is not dead—he is just away.

Early missed by HIS MOTHER AND BROTHERS,
 HIS WIFE AND DAUGHTERS

American Legion Elects Graham As Commander

New Officers of Local Post Will Be Installed on July 24

Samuel A. Graham, past first vice commander, was elected commander of Post 13, American Legion, at the annual election held on Monday.

Announcement of Graham's victory over Paul C. Weisenmiller was made at the regular meeting of the post last night in conformance with revised election laws. He succeeds Robert C. Bowers.

Results of the balloting were announced at yesterday's meeting with the exception of the outcome on voting for forty-two delegates to attend the Maryland Department convention in Baltimore August 24, 25 and 26. Those ballots had not been counted last night and the results will be made known to-night.

Underdunk Is Elected

Other officers elected last night include Lester W. Underdunk, first vice commander; Phil Fleming, second vice commander; Russell C. Pauppe, adjutant; Leo C. Reichert, finance officer; Henry Walker, historian; Thomas R. Farrell, chaplain; P. Earl Brode, sergeant-at-arms; William Fletcher and William J. McGady, executive committee.

There were no contests for second vice commander, adjutant, finance officer, historian and chaplain.

The new officers will be installed at the regular meeting of the post on July 24. William C. Rankin, Lonaconing, Mountain district vice commander of the Legion, will be installing the officers.

Graham, the new commander, is an employee of the Times and Alleganian Company, and this year has served as chairman of the Legion's Mountain district membership committee. He also served as chairman of the Mountain district's war bond committee in the Sixth and Seventh War Loan drives. Graham has been active in many Legion activities and served on various other Legion committees as well as holding the office of first vice commander of the local post.

Local Physician Traces History Of Anesthetics

Development of the science of anesthesia within recent years has been remarkable. Dr. W. Royce Hodges told Rotarians yesterday as guest speaker.

Particularly has this been so with regard to control of pain in childbirth in the last five years. Dr. Hodges said, addressing the club at its weekly luncheon at the Central Y.M.C.A.

Formerly relief could be provided by whiffs of chloroform in the final stages of labor, but now when general anesthesia is impossible because of a patient's condition, continuous caudal analgesia is administered, which provides complete cessation of pain at forty-minute intervals as required until the child is born, the speaker said.

This method was pioneered by Robert A. Hickson and Waldo B. Edwards, of the United States Public Health Service.

Dr. Hodges traced the history of the science from its inception in 1846 in Massachusetts by Dr. W. T. G. Morton, a Baltimore-trained physician, ether being the first agent. It was not the first use of ether for anesthesia, but the first by which the medical profession was impressed, other pioneers having been Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, and Dr. Horace Wells, a Boston dentist.

Laughing gas and chloroform were later introduced and in 1885 Dr. Corning of New York, introduced cocaine. In 1895 Dr. Rudolph Metas, of Louisiana, introduced anesthesia; in 1905 came the use of novocaine through its discovery by Dr. William H. Halstead, of Johns Hopkins, and in 1936 penothol sodium was introduced by Dr. John Lundy, of the Mayo clinic.

This is given intravenously for general anesthesia and has great merit, it was explained, because it can be combined with certain forms of local and spinal anesthesia. Further developments were effected by Dr. William Lemmon of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, by the use of fractional and graduated dosages.

Guests of the club included Col. J. D. Caldwell, Washington, D. C.; S. Horn, Cleveland; Samuel S. Sussner, Meyersdale, Pa.; and J. A. Sanford, Cumberland.

West Virginians Must Have New Auto Tags Today

A warning that 1944-45 automobile license plates would be prohibited today in West Virginia was given yesterday by Secretary Don McLaugherty of the State Roads Commission, who said the deadline for obtaining 1945-46 plates was last night at midnight.

More than 221,000 auto tags have been issued to state drivers, McLaugherty said. The present figure represents little change from the total issued at this time a year ago.

Dundon To Investigate Progress on Mill Probe

James A. Dundon, this city, regional director of Textile Workers Union of America, will go to Washington, D. C., tomorrow to confer with a TWUA official concerning the progress of an investigation into the furloughing of over 100 employees of the General Textile Mill plant in Lonaconing.

Local 1874, TWUA, officials said the union is seeking to determine if the recent furloughing is an attempt to evade a pay increase retroactive to September, 1944.

LEGION COMMANDER

Samuel A. Graham on Monday was elected commander of Post 13, American Legion, to succeed Robert C. Bowers. A former first vice commander of the local Legion post, Graham will be installed on July 24 by William C. Rankin, Lonaconing, Mountain district vice commander. Graham is an employee of the Times and Alleganian Company.

Two Local Men Held under Bond In Theft Case

Charged with the theft of a case of Philip Morris cigarettes from an interstate truck shipment of cigarettes last September, Charles Eldon Kennard, 38, Fifth street, was committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bond for action of the federal grand jury after a hearing before United States Commissioner Wilbur V. Wilson yesterday morning.

Kennard, a truck driver for the Charlton Brothers Transfer Company, was arrested Monday afternoon by special agents of the FBI. The agents said that Kennard had stolen the cigarette shipment from the tobacco company warehouse in Richmond, Va., to Cumberland, where it was consigned to the Kennewick wholesale grocery firm. The entire shipment, except for the one case containing fifty cartons of cigarettes, was delivered.

Kennard told the FBI agents he sold the case to Walter Nelson Burley, 40, Elm street, for $50. Burley, who is employed at a local service station, allegedly resold the cigarettes in this city for $70. When Burley was arrested Monday by the agents he had $4,223 in cash in a billfold.

At a hearing before Commissioner Wilson yesterday afternoon Burley was released under $2,000 bond for action of the federal grand jury. Douglas D. Pate, Charlotte, N. C., who waived a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Wilson yesterday morning on a charge of violating the National Automobile Theft act, was returned to the county jail in default of $2,500 bond for action of the federal grand jury.

Pate was committed to the county jail July 2 for six days in default of a fine imposed in trial magistrates' court when he was found guilty of driving on an expired chauffeur's license. He was arrested the preceding day after the car he was driving was involved in a head-on collision with a car driven by a Cresapeake sailor at the intersection of Park street and Central avenue.

When FBI agents checked the record of the car Pate was driving, a 1941 Ford coupe, they discovered that it had been stolen in Front Royal, Va., July 1. Pate is employed there by the American Viscose Company.

Beetle Plague Is Worst in Years, McHenry Reports

The Japanese beetle plague in Maryland is the worst in years, Ralph P. McHenry, county farm agent, reported yesterday. Hardest hit area in the county is the Cumberland Country Club section near the Christie road where most of the efforts of crews to combat the menace are being concentrated. The beetle has come out of the golf course by the thousands and have heavily damaged the leaves on nearby trees and plants in gardens, the farm agent said.

More than 2,500 beetle traps have been distributed in gardens and farms by Hugh Stevenson, of Ellerslie, who has charge of the beetle control work. Two hundred new traps were added to the supply this year since the traps put out last summer were not adequate to cope with the situation.

McHenry said many Cumberlanders have reported damage caused by beetles, particularly to rose bushes and shrubbery. So far, there has been no serious damage to the growing sugar corn crop but some injury may be expected if the plague spreads, the farm agent said. The beetles eat the corn silk and ruin pollination.

McHenry stated that the beetles are fond of fruit and may be expected to feed on peaches and apples. Orchardists spray to keep the beetles away and the same thing can be done by city residents around their shrubbery, he said.

The county agent said the beetles should begin to taper off around the first of August and the season will end around the fifteenth.

Col. W. P. Lane Jr., Will Inspect Guard

Col. William Preston Lane, Jr., and his staff will attend the meeting of the state guard tonight at 7 p. m. at the armory to issue camp instructions to personnel of Companies C and D who will take summer training at Fort George G. Meade last of July.

Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, commander of Company C, has asked that all members of Companies C and D be present to hear Col. Lane's instructions.

State guard officers will be at Fort Meade from July 22 to July 31.

Legion Protests Against Housing Japs at Bedford

Letter Is Directed to President, Stimson and Legislators

Protesting against use of the Bedford Springs hotel, Bedford, Pa., as an "internment camp" for Japanese diplomats captured in Europe, Port Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, last night registered its objection in a resolution and letter directed to President Truman, Henry Stimson, secretary of war, the two United States senators from Maryland, the six Maryland members of the House of Representatives, the Legion's Department of Maryland convention and the Legion's national convention.

The Legionnaires declared that the "very idea that we should have them in the neighborhood is particularly offensive and we want those who are responsible for it to know we don't like it."

Matter of Concern

"American Legion, Port Cumberland Post, No. 13, registers its protest against the designation of the Bedford Springs hotel at Bedford, Pa., as an internment camp for Japanese in the diplomatic corps taken prisoner in Europe," the letter reads. "This location is so near to Cumberland, less than thirty miles distant, as to make it a matter of concern to us."

"The very idea that we should have them in the neighborhood is particularly offensive and we want those who are responsible for it to know we don't like it."

"To have those people quartered in the most luxurious hotel within 100 miles of us is not conducive of public good feeling, and is resented not only by the thousands of members of Port Cumberland Post, but by the people generally."

War Criminals

"It is not going to arouse any sympathy or goodwill among those who are responsible for having people whom we regard as war criminals quartered in our midst."

"We earnestly hope that those who so ordered will revoke the order."

The letter is signed by Robert C. Bowers, post commander.

12 Men Nominated For Directors Of Civic Group

Twelve Cumberland business men have been nominated candidates for the board of directors of the new Civic Group for the next fiscal year, H. W. Smith, secretary, announced. Six will be elected at the annual meeting of the chamber July 24.

The ballots placing the twelve business men in nomination were counted last night at the chamber office by Lynn Lashley, chairman of the committee on elections, Harrison Landis and James B. Reinhardt. The twelve are:

Geppert, editor of the Cumberland NEWS; George F. Hazelwood, contractor; John D. Liebau, Embassy Dairy Incorporated; Roy Lottig, manager of the Coca Cola plant; Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Western Maryland Railway Company; Irving Rosenberg, treasurer Rosenberg's department store; Frank E. Smith, president of Community Baking Company; and Wilbur V. Wilson, president, Commercial Trust Company.

CENTRAL METHODIST BUYS PARSONAGE

The trustees of the Central Methodist Church yesterday completed transactions in the records office at the court house in the purchase of a new parsonage for the pastor, The Rev. B. Ralph Mark.

The Rev. Mr. Mark moved into the new parsonage on the south-easterly side of Fayette street yesterday. The property, in the Tusculum Addition, includes parts of lots 54, 55 and 56. It was purchased from Harry Foster.

The former parsonage on Glenn street was deeded by the church trustees to Bernard R. and Katie Kerns, Oldtown road, for $5,250. Mr. and Mrs. Kerns deeded the property in turn to Thomas R. Shaffer, Pauline Shaffer and Mary L. Law.

William A. Gunter and George R. Hughes were the attorneys who handled the transactions.

Local Home Slightly Damaged by Lightning

The home of Edward J. Wilson, 630 Brookfield avenue, was slightly damaged last evening about 10 o'clock when it was struck by lightning.

South End Fire Company No. 2, summoned to the home, reported the bolt of lightning knocked off part of a flue and tore away part of an attic window. Two bedrooms of the house were slightly damaged, firemen reported.

The electricity, firemen reported, knocked chunks of plaster from the walls of the room. It looked, fireman added, "as if machine gun bullets had struck the walls."

None of the occupants of the home were injured, firemen added.

Appeal Is Filed

An appeal against the Celanese Corporation of America, the American Motorist's Insurance Company and the State Industrial Accident Commission was filed yesterday in circuit court by Stephen J. Eckard of Cumberland. Eckard had been denied compensation by the board after claiming he was injured at work November 16, 1941. Edward J. Ryan is his counsel.

Four State Policemen Will Receive Commendations from O'Conor, Ober

Superintendent Conducts Annual Inspection of Barracks at LaVale

Four state policemen stationed at the LaVale barracks of the state police will receive commendations from Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor and Col. Beverly Ober, state police superintendent, for their apprehension last August of two armed fugitives from Rock View penitentiary, Pittsburgh, Pa. Col. Ober announced yesterday at the annual inspection of the barracks.

Presentation of the commendations to Sgt. Harold C. Carl and Troopers Blair J. Buckel, Ira Unger and Glenn D. Folk will be made at state police headquarters, Pikesville, next Wednesday. Gov. O'Conor is expected to present the awards, which will be signed by him and Col. Ober.

Recalls Previous Award

The commendation will be the second such honor conferred on men at the local barracks, according to First Sgt. John H. Doud, barracks commander, who said the entire personnel was honored last year for its work in breaking up a black market in gasoline at Hagerstown.

In making the announcement of the commendations, Col. Ober said he wants the public to advise him when an officer performs some duty deemed worthy of citation or special praise.

Capt. Buckel, Unger and Folk apprehended the fugitives from the Pennsylvania penitentiary last August 7 as they walked along a back road leading from Accident to Friendsville. Both men were armed, one carrying a thirty-two caliber automatic pistol and the other a knife with a seven-inch blade.

Medals Presented

In the course of the inspection yesterday, Col. Ober presented pistol marksmanship medals to the entire personnel of the LaVale barracks. Expert medals were presented to Trooper First Class A. M. Spioch, First Class Harry A. Holsinger, 237; Unger, 229; Folk, 226, and Cpl. Thomas Currie, 212.

Troopers who received marksmanship medals and their scores are Trooper First Class Harry A. Holsinger, 237; Unger, 229; Folk, 226, and Cpl. Thomas Currie, 212.

Troopers, the barracks, equipment, automobiles and motorcycles carried a spit and polish appearance for the inspection, conducted by Col. Ober and a party of officers including Capt. Andrew T. Conner, administrative officer in charge of equipment; Lt. William Weber, field force commander; Lt. George E. Davidson, in charge of the bureau of investigation; Lt. William Conroy, director of training; First Sgt. Louis Bloom, in charge of radio, and First Sgt. Walter K. May, commander of Troop B.

Sgt. John H. Newhouse, of the Cumberland Police Department, was invited by Col. Ober to assist in the pistol inspection. Mayor Thomas S. Post, and County Commissioners Simeon Green and C. N. Wilkinson, Jr., were invited to attend.

The inspection at the LaVale barracks, attended by city and county officials, law enforcement officers and others, followed a similar inspection of the Frederick barracks yesterday morning.

Rationing of Trucks To Be Speeded Up

Effective August 1, the Office of Defense Transportation district managers throughout the country will have full authority to allocate light and medium trucks and to issue certificates of transfer with order forwarding requests to the ODT Allocation Section in Washington for approval.

The new procedure will speed up the rationing of trucks and greatly simplify truck dealers' orders in selling and transferring vehicles according to Melvin R. Green, Regional ODT Director.

The ODT official stated that no changes will be made in the method of submitting applications and that the application form ODT 663 (Rev.) will not be changed.

Local News in Brief

Sales of a special stamp honoring the marine corps for their achievements in the present war will go on sale tomorrow at the local post office, according to post office officials. The central design of the stamp, printed in purple, depicts the raising of the flag on Mount Suribachi on the island of Iwo Jima. Underneath are the words "Iwo Jima" in white-face gothic letters.

Smith's Tender Feet shoe store will open today in its new location at 137 Baltimore street, in the building formerly occupied by Widman's women's wear shop. The store, operated by Albert and Otto C. Smith, has been located at 123 Baltimore street for the past six years.

Employees of the big vein coal operation of the Koonz Coal Company are continuing their work stoppage, which began June 25 when the men claimed their earnings were reduced from $19 to $4 daily because of excessive blasting and removal of rock at a low rate.

Officers for the 1945-46 term will be elected tomorrow night at 8:30 p. m. by Fulton Myers Post No. 153, American Legion, at the Post's Home at 68 North Mechanic street.

James E. Stemple, past commander of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will speak over Radio Station WTBO tonight at 6:15 p. m. in the fifty-sixth in a series of "Speak Up for Democracy" programs being sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Stemple will discuss "teamwork" in the postwar world.

Harold W. Smith, William C. Walsh and Mrs. Emma M. Everstine will attend the National War Fund meeting at the Alexander hotel, Hagerstown, next Monday. Speakers will discuss China Relief, USO Pacific activity, and prisoner of war treatment. The meeting is one of three being held in the state.

Former Allegany High Court Star Arrives in City

Sgt. Donald McIntyre Worked on Damaged Bombers in England

Sgt. Donald McIntyre, who did plastic repair work on shot-up bombers at a Flying Fortress base in England for twenty-three months, is spending a thirty-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, 623 Sedgewick street, after which he will report to Kelly field, Tex., for further orders. He arrived in this country June 29 on the Queen Elizabeth.

Sgt. McIntyre is a former basketball star at Allegany high school where he played on the varsity for two years, alternating at center and forward. He went into the army in January, 1943, and received his training at McCulloch field, Calif. He went to England in January, 1943.

Working in two-man crews, the plastic repair men worked without letup during the grimest days of the air war over the continent and McIntyre declares that some of the shot-up ships brought after runs over Germany were little more than junk heaps.

"I recall one Port that came in with five dead crew members, that had to have every window replaced and many other repairs made," he said. "The bad jobs usually took us about three days and we made all our own parts with the exception of nose parts."

McIntyre liked England, especially the English pubs where "people order one pint of warm beer, or 'bitter' as they call it, and then spend the whole evening."

Cumberland looks pretty good to the former Allegany high school athlete and he is now wondering what his new orders will contain when he receives them upon reporting in Texas.

Sale of Property For Taxes Approved By Commissioners

The county commissioners yesterday approved settlement of property purchased at tax sale, granted an order on a building owned by a Midlothian man and has a complaint regarding the condition of the Knob road.

The commissioners ordered that Alban C. Thompson, county treasurer, be paid $607 in settlement of property purchased at tax sale along with Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson dissented on the grounds that there has been no breakdown of the property.

Commissioners Simeon W. Green and James Holmes voted for the payment stating that immediate payment would save additional court costs.

The properties purchased at tax sale were listed as follows: Ralph E. Castell et ux, $84; Clara J. Everstine estate, $102; Ida B. and Helene P. McKee, $127; Rosa A. Shoemaker, $106; and Mary Luu Ying-ling, $82.

Mrs. A. R. McDaniels appeared before the board to complain about the condition of the Knob road, from Bedford road to Valley road. Her request that improvements be made was referred to the county road engineer.

Upon the motion of Commissioner Wilkinson, the board granted an abatement of $350 to Clifton W. Skidmore, Midlothian, District 19, on a building which had been torn down several years ago.

Blood Donor Unit Will Visit Keyser

A Red Cross mobile blood donor unit from Washington will be in Keyser, W. Va., July 30 through August 1, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the Allegany county chapter of the American Red Cross.

Explaining that plans to have a mobile unit visit Cumberland were cancelled because the unit operating out of Baltimore was discontinued, Mrs. Witherup said local residents desiring to become blood donors should write to H. B. Montgomery, blood donor chairman, Keyser, for an appointment.

The Mineral county chapter of the Red Cross, which is in charge, will not furnish transportation to Keyser. Mrs. Witherup said. Those wishing an appointment must register with Montgomery by letter within a week.

The mobile unit will be located at Grace M. E. church, Mineral street, Keyser.

MEDICS COMPLETE WORK IN ENGLAND; HOSPITALS CLOSE

Two medics from this section have completed their work at army hospitals in England, all of the patients having been transferred to this country the first of last month, according to a release.

First Lt. Oren Womack, husband of Mrs. Kathleen Walsh Womack, Mt. Savage, served as utilities, transportation and assistant supply officer at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth general hospital, Landford camp, Dorset, England.

Pfc. Marvin H. Gowan, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gowan, 102 Jackson street, Lonaconing, was maintenance man at the One Hundred and Thirty-third general hospital, Blandford camp, Dorset, England. The hospital had one of the lowest fatality rates in the medical department.

Former chief clerk in the War department, Washington, Lt. Womack entered the army in September, 1942. Pfc. Gowan was employed at the Celanese plant before he entered the army in December, 1944.

State Tax Expert Confers with Officials

H. Gerard Muller, Baltimore, chief supervisor of the Maryland State Tax commission, yesterday conferred with Allegany county officials at the court house regarding new laws passed by the Legislature and their application to county assessment procedure.

Present at the conference were Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, Edward Elchner and Frederick Walter, assessors, and the county commissioners.

The discussion mostly concerned the new method of taxation on automobiles, the passing of deeds for tax payments and transfer on assessment books before recording of deeds.

Two Kelly Foremen Injured in Minor Explosion at Plant

Explosion at Plant

Two Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employees were burned, one seriously enough to require hospitalization, as a result of a minor explosion of a dip unit in the calendar room of the Kelly plant, yesterday morning about 10:30 o'clock.

Thomas L. Rudd, 827 Gephart drive, a foreman in the department, is in a "good" condition in Memorial hospital where he was admitted yesterday about 11:30 a. m. suffering from flash burns on the face and arms as a result of the accident.

James W. Lewis, 215 Valley street, calendar room supervisor, received first aid treatment in the plant dispensary for minor burns.

A plant official said the explosion was due to faulty operation of the ventilating system of the dip unit.

George Schacke, 51, Wilford Ford, W. Va., was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday morning for a laceration of the head. The B. O. worker told attaches a brick fell upon him as he was at work.

Engineers Begin Taking Borings Of River Bottom

Core borings of the Potomac river bottom for use in a project report on flood-control measures for Cumberland have been started by United States Army Engineers near the Blue bridge.

O. E. Cox, soils engineer, is in charge of the field work here, and yesterday he estimated that borings at various locations in the river and Willard creek, take about two months to complete.

The boring job, started on the Fourth of July, was resumed yesterday after a weekend layoff, and Cox said two borings completed to date indicate the foundation beneath the river is of rock. Another matter to be determined, he added, is the depth of the rock.

Borings in the river bed are being made from two standard army bridge pontoons secured rigidly together. The pontoons, with a carrying capacity of ten tons, are made of aluminum.

Cox and his six assistants will move several hundred yards down the river for the next foundation investigation once the one at the Blue bridge is completed.

Divorce Is Granted To Rosalee Eaton

Chief Judge William A. Huster granted a divorce to Mrs. Rosalee (Hickie) Eaton, West Oldtown road, yesterday in circuit court. Four new divorce actions were filed yesterday.

Mrs. Eaton was awarded a decree from James H. Eaton, Columbia street. She was also awarded the custody of their daughter, aged 7. Her attorney, Harold E. Naughton, said they were married March 2, 1938, in Cumberland and lived together until April 10 of this year.

Mrs. Bessie L. Twigg, 146 Bedford street, filed against Maurice M. Twigg, Judge Huster ordered the defendant to pay $40 as court fees and $10 a month alimony. The court also restrained Twigg from molesting his wife or entering the Bedford street premises pending trial.

Mrs. Ellen Hershberger has asked for a divorce from Leland Hershberger. The plaintiff's attorney, Ryan, said the couple was married in Westernport in 1927 and lived together until 1931. Three children, aged 17, 15, and 13 were born of the marriage.

Mrs. Canzania Crowliss, Cumberland, has requested a divorce from Robert Crowliss. Mrs. Crowliss asks that her maiden name of Canzania Davis be restored to her. Her attorney, Ryan, stated that they were married last August 7 and lived together until September 30.

In another action Charles E. Crites filed for a divorce from Jean M. Crites. They were married in 1939 in Winchester, Va. Clarence Lippel is attorney for the plaintiff.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS, TEACHERS ATTENDING TOWSON CONFERENCE

A conference on the reorganization of the educational program of Maryland schools at Towson State Teachers' college is being attended by seven Allegany county school officials and teachers, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, said yesterday.

The local representatives are serving on fourteen committees with Richard T. Rizer, high school supervisor, heading the science group. Kopp attended some of the sessions last week.

Other school officials and teachers attending the conference are Llewellyn C. Davis, Bruns high school principal; Edwin Finzel, physical education and health teacher at Beall high; Miss Nellie Willison, Port Hill English department; Miss Margaret Hamilton, Fort Hill mathematics department; Miss Ingrid Ingles, West Side primary teacher; Miss Leah Stakem, special education, Cresapeake.

Emphasis at the conference is being placed on the junior high department in conformance with the act of the general assembly which increased the Maryland school program from 11 to 12 years.

Three Births Reported In Local Hospitals

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ours, Petersburg, W. Va., announce the birth of a son in Memorial hospital yesterday morning.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shaffer, 154 Polk street, in Memorial hospital yesterday at 12:55 p. m. Shaffer is a member of the Celanese staff.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Fisher, Mt. Lake Park, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial hospital last evening at 8:36 o'clock.

Police, Firemen Criticize Delay In Leave Schedule

Committee Quits Trying To Arrange Extra Day Off Monthly

Members of the city police and fire departments said they believe preparation of a schedule to give them two extra days off each month as promised is up to the head of their departments and not to a committee of police or firemen.

In March James Orr, commissioner of police and fire, appointed a committee from the two departments to work out a schedule of days off for police and firemen, but employees since have reported that "gave up" in the face of "ridiculous" demands made by Orr in preparation of the schedule.

Members of the two departments said the committee informed them they must consider vacation periods as well as days off because of sickness or death in making off the schedule, and that no days off could be allowed at such times.

"How can we tell when somebody is going to get sick or die?" asked one of the department heads, adding, "Is it any wonder we gave up trying to work out a schedule?"

Sent Bills To Annapolis

Police said they were told they could not have days off on holidays or during the racing at Pimlico although they were given days off at those times in past years.

Police and firemen sent bills to Annapolis at the last session of the legislature when they would receive two additional days off each month.

On March 27, Orr and other members of the council met with State Senator Robert B. Kimble at Annapolis following a hearing on bills before Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor.
